YANKS CHALK GAINS, ROK RETREATS

ON THE 175TH ANNIVERSARY of the U. S. Marine Corps, a memorial wreath was placed on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery, Virginia, in tribute to the Marine dead of all wars. Brig. Gen. Melvin J. Maas, president of the Marine Corps Reserve Officers Association, salutes at close of the ceremony.

Senator Taft Said Cinch To Remain GOP Chieftain

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—Senators will keep their leadership team led by Sen. Taft, (R. Ohio), when the 82nd Congress organizes in January.

The "Young Turks" at first considered challenging the Taft leadership directly by running Lodge for policy chairman, then made the floor leadership the target for their test of strength. Wherry was elected unanimously after they lost.

The tide of Republican victories in Senate contests which gave the minority a net gain of five seats is expected to bring party factions into closer harmony.

The same is expected on the Democratic side, where control of the Senate now hangs on a one-vote majority. Jockeying already has begun on the necessary selection in January of a new Democratic floor leader to take over when Majority Leader Lucas, (D. Ill.), steps out of the Senate. Lucas lost to Former Rep. Dirksen while Taft was winning his 430,000-vote plurality in Ohio.

Sen. Russell, (D. Ga.), is the most likely choice at present for Democratic leader. Russell is backed by Sen. O'Mahoney, (D. Wyo.), who also has been mentioned as a prominent candidate for the post. O'Mahoney said he was "not interested" in the leadership and that Russell was "eminently qualified."

Russell is said not to want the job, but is expected to withhold his final "no" until a choice satisfactory to Dixie Democrats is made.

State's Taxation Chief To Resign
COLUMBUS, Nov. 13—State Tax Commissioner C. Emory Glander announced today that he will retire from public office when his term expires Feb. 12.

Glander, first appointed by Republican Gov. John W. Bricker in 1945 to fill the unexpired term of William S. Evatt, said his "family responsibilities" make it necessary to leave the $9,000-a-year job and enter law practice in Columbus.

4 Persons Hurt In Pair Of Auto Accidents
Four persons suffered injuries on Pickaway County highways last weekend as the result of two auto accidents.

State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells, who investigated both mishaps, said the first smashup occurred at 10:30 p. m. Saturday on Route 56 below Laurelville.

The patrolman said an auto driven by Paul Karshner, 19, of Laurelville Route 2, was thrown out of control when a tire blew. The Karshner auto whipped around on the highway and overturned.

Karshner was unhurt in the accident, Wells said, but two passengers, Eugene Neal, 16, of Adelphi and Lloyd Poling, 17, of Laurelville Route 2 both suffered head lacerations.

Both Neal and Poling were rushed into Berger hospital, (Continued on Page Two)

RED CHINA DELEGATION AWAITED

UN Observer Is Being Sent To Study Korea War Status

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 13—A representative of the United Nations was enroute by air today to the Korean fighting front in an indicated effort to negotiate directly with the Chinese Communists for a settlement of frontier issues.

James Plimssoll, Australian minister on the newly-created UN Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea, said prior to his take-off from New York last night that the use of military force by Communist China to protect its frontier interests is "wholly unwarranted and unnecessary."

Lake Success observers interpreted this as a new appeal to the Chinese Communist government to withdraw its troops from North Korea and entrust its electric power and industrial interests on the frontier to the UN.

Plimssoll said the seven-nation commission will assemble in Tokyo for an organization meeting and shortly thereafter will head for the fighting zone.

He will be followed by plane from New York Wednesday by Ambassador Manuel Trucco of Chile and Ambassador Mian Ziauddin of Pakistan.

MEANWHILE, the United States insisted that Communist China undergo questioning before the UN Security Council this week on the entrance of 60,000

35 Pct. Slash Is Ordered In Aluminum Use

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—The government today ordered a 35 percent reduction in civilian aluminum supplies and warned that the action will result in some unemployment and higher prices for aluminum products next year.

The order is effective Jan. 1. National Production Administrator William H. Harrison said he issued the order because the military rearmament program will require about 30 percent of the nation's annual aluminum output of one million tons.

Harrison told a news conference that the aluminum reduction will hit civilian manufacturers in widely varying degrees depending on their particular past use of aluminum.

He declared that it is "quite likely" that unemployment will result in such aluminum-using manufacturing industries as kitchen ware, vacuum cleaners, radio and television.

Harrison declared that the government hopes the price of raw aluminum will be stabilized by the action cutting civilian consumption.

But he added that it is "probably" prices for products such as radio and television sets might increase because of the cut in civilian aluminum supplies.

After Jan. 1, producers will not be permitted to use more than 65 percent of the monthly average amount consumed during the first six months of this year.

In addition, civilian producers next month may not use any more than the monthly average figure used between last January and June 30.

Peiping rejected Saturday an invitation of the council to discuss Chinese intervention in Korea. Despite this, the U. S. will press for an explanation of Gen. MacArthur's charges that Chinese Communist troops have crossed the frontier from Man-

Chiang Says 'Reds' Revolt

Chinese 'Forced' Into Korean War

TAIPEH, Formosa, Nov. 13—The entry of Chinese Communist troops into battle against American and other United Nations forces in Korea is not a voluntary action of the Chinese people on the mainland of China, but must be definitely recognized as an action taken under the direction of international Communism, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, leader of Nationalist China, declared today. He added:

"Though the leaders of the Chinese Communist Party are willing tools of the Kremlin, the rank-and-file of Chinese Communist troops have been sent into Korea either through deliberate misrepresentation or brute coercion."

"There is an active revolt among Chinese Communist troops not only near the front in Manchuria but also in Hupeh, Szechwan, Yunnan and Fukien provinces where the troops have refused to entrain for the front in Korea, resulting in bloodshed and loss of many lives."

"The Chinese people cannot and will not forget the mutually beneficial effects accruing from a century of cordial Sino-American friendship and comradeship born during the four years of shoulder-to-shoulder fighting in the last war."

"DESPITE the vicious Communist propaganda, this appreciation continues. For the moment, the people on the Chinese mainland simply lack the means to express their free will."

"My government is doing its utmost in penetrating the curtain to dissuade the people on the mainland from participating in any hostile action against the United Nations forces, and, if they are in Korea, to persuade them to surrender their arms."

"Time was when my government stood alone in urging vigilance."

Lima Schedules All-Out Alert

LIMA, Nov. 13—Some 500 military and civil defense observers will meet here Sunday to witness what is thought to be the nation's first countywide civil defense alert.

An estimated 7,500 civil defense volunteers will try to counteract simulated "enemy" bombing raids by Ohio National Guard planes from Columbus, and ward off bogus acts of sabotage by fake "enemy agents."

All cars entering Allen County will be stopped to prevent infiltration by the pseudo enemy and to direct civil defense workers quickly to their tasks.

churia and engaged UN forces in Korea.

A nine-member team coming by air from Peiping to New York will be asked by American Delegate Warren Austin to make an explanation.

Austin and other Western members of the council plan to question the Communist delegation despite Communist Foreign Minister Chou En-lai's view, which specifically rejects consultations on MacArthur's report, but insists on an all inclusive canvassing of the Korean-Formosan situation.

On this basis, it is believed possible to quiz the Peiping delegation within the framework of the entire Far Eastern situation.

The questioning will be taken up by sharp-tongued diplomats like Sir Gladwyn Jebb of Britain and Jean Chauvel of France. Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik will have the role of chief defense attorney for the representatives of Communist Leader Mao Tse-tung.

The scheduled discussion of Communist China's charges that the U. S. committed aggression in ordering its Seventh Fleet to safeguard the Nationalist island stronghold of Formosa against invasion—charges which Russia supports—will be deferred until the Security Council has reached a decision on the Korean issue.

The reverse side of the Formosa problem will be aired in the next day or two, however, when the assembly's 60-nation political committee takes up the American proposal that UN appoint an observation group for investigating the Formosa situation on the spot.

'Ambassador' Betty Riddle Nearing Home

Pickaway County's "grass-roots diplomat" to Denmark was scheduled to arrive in New York, Monday, enroute to her home.

Betty Jean Riddle of Orient is among 42 United States representatives in the International Farm Youth Exchange who spent the Summer in foreign countries.

Also from Ohio was Richard Taylor of Chagrin Falls who went to Greece.

They will attend a "Welcome Home" breakfast at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel at 8 a. m. Tuesday followed by an informal discussion and should be ready to leave for home by noon.

Upon their return to Ohio, Miss Riddle, and Taylor will be available to relate their experiences before youth, farm and civic groups throughout the state.

Voluntary donations gathered by University 4-H Club, University Farm Bureau, and University Grange financed the trips. Miss Riddle is a rural sociology sophomore and Taylor is a junior in agricultural education. They plan to resume studies in January.

Objectives of the IFYE project are to contribute to world peace by promoting international understanding among farm youth and to inform farm youth all over the world through the exchange of cultural and citizenship experiences.

WOMAN DOCTOR IS HELD

Parents Demand Death Penalty For Kidnaper

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 13—A prominent woman physician was charged today with kidnapping a 9-year-old girl whose parents demanded the abductor be given "the maximum penalty"—which is death.

Dr. Nancy Duval Campbell, 53, a respected obstetrician of Santa Fe, was arrested Saturday night when she tried to pick up $20,000 in ransom money for the child, Linda Stamm, daughter of a Santa Fe realtor.

The kidnapping warrant was signed by Judge David Carmody and bond was set at $25,000. The child apparently was drugged but otherwise unharmed when she was found in an abandoned hut, 10 miles south-east of Santa Fe.

Percy D. Wiley, of the FBI office in Albuquerque, N. M., said Dr. Campbell explained that the motive for the kidnapping was to get money to build a new home and for her "many household expenses."

Wiley added that despite the woman physician's apparently successful practice she had only $1,000 in the bank. She offered no explanation of her lack of funds.

THE CHILD'S parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Stamm, said they would urge authorities to demand the "maximum penalty" for Dr. Campbell.

It was the manner in which the respected woman doctor attempted to collect the ransom that led to her capture by FBI and city and state police officers at the entrance to the suburban Community of New Homes being developed by Stamm.

Dr. Campbell, who is unmarried, but has an adopted son, Rufus, 4, was seized as she picked up the ransom-envelop left in front of the Stamm home.

She admitted to FBI agents that she had been planning a kidnapping for some time.

Unused ransom notes found in her car indicated she planned to kidnap any child, not particularly Linda Stamm at the time.

One of the ransom notes was addressed to Mrs. Eric P. Hausner, wife of a Santa Fe doctor. Another was addressed to John Dendahl, wealthy Santa Fe dry goods merchant.

Wiley quoted Dr. Campbell as saying she planned to kidnap the Hausner or Dendahl children if the Stamm child was not at home.

Wiley said that Dr. Campbell admitted she dressed in man's clothing and handed the Stamm ransom note to Linda who gave it to a maid. The child told the maid the "man" wanted her to leave with him.

The maid protested but assumed the "man" was a neighbor or friend of the family and did not immediately report the incident.

To the east of the 24th's sector, the U. S. First Cavalry Division drove north from the Kunuri segment of the Chongchon bridgehead for gains of one and a half to two miles Monday. The First Cavalry met strong resistance.

On the east side of North Korea, the U. S. First Marine Division's Seventh Regiment resumed its drive in sub-freezing temperatures across a snow-covered plateau toward the huge Changjin (Chosin) reservoir.

INS War Correspondent Irwin Tress reported at 9:25 Monday night that the Leathernecks pushed three miles north from captured Kotori to within five miles of the reservoir's southern rim.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters spokesman said UN patrols have been reported to have reached the reservoir.

According to reports, the companies are to rig well-drilling equipment on the lands to begin test drilling within the next 30 days. The land is believed to be optioned on one-year leases.

The landowners report that geologists have made preliminary surveys of the area and "rather believe there is gas here."

The owners estimated nearly a dozen farms are tied in with the program.

NEW DELHI, Nov. 13—Reports from Northern India said today that Lhasa, capital of invaded Tibet, has fallen to Chinese Communist troops.

Air Units Smash At Red Advance

Marines Aiming At Reservoir

SEOUL, Nov. 14—(Tuesday)—American forces scored gains of two and a half to three miles in both Northwest and Northeast Korea Monday, but Red attacks in the center forced Rok (Republic of Korea) troops back two and a half miles.

As fighting flared along the now-continuous transpeninsular front, U. S. planes struck at a 20-mile-long column of Communist reinforcements moving down from Manchuria's border toward the central sector.

B-29 Superforts knocked out the last of the two Antung-Sinui-ju bridges that comprised the most important Yalu river link between Red China's Manchuria and Korea.

On the west side of the front, U. S. 24th Infantry Division renewed the United Nations drive beyond the Chongchon river bridgehead Monday morning.

By 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, the Americans had gained two and a half miles in the area west of Pakchon.

The 24th's spearheads reached points about a mile and a half northwest of Pakchon and thus outflanked that enemy-held hub toward which British Commonwealth troops had moved from the southeast.

THE 24TH PUSHED north against no resistance and some of the division's units did not even fire a shot during the day. International News Service War Correspondent Bernard Kaplan reported in a Monday midnight front dispatch that Red troops appeared to have withdrawn from the entire area of the 24th's advance.

To the east of the 24th's sector, the U. S. First Cavalry Division drove north from the Kunuri segment of the Chongchon bridgehead for gains of one and a half to two miles Monday. The First Cavalry met strong resistance.

NEW DELHI, Nov. 13—Reports from Northern India said today that Lhasa, capital of invaded Tibet, has fallen to Chinese Communist troops.

Due to a recent slash in funds by the U. S. Bureau of the Budget the nutrition field survey service has been discontinued.

Dr. Porterfield said the cut will force the withdrawal of a field survey team which has been studying nutrition in Athens County and the Columbus state school as well as the effect of school lunch programs.

place. Bobby Davis said: "Now he and Mom write me letters about how the news is good and maybe the war will be over soon. I don't think the people there ever knew how bad it really got to be."

Then you realize that this blue eyed, blond and beardless boy is a bitter man. But his bitterness is tempered with a sense of humor. "You know the two toughest things about this war, don't you?" He asked. "Staying alive and staying clean."

Staying Alive And Clean Is GI's Biggest War Problem

IN KOREA, Nov. 13 — This is Bobby Davis' 131st day in the line in Korea but there is no celebration about it.

In the foxhole where Bobby Davis lives there is no room for a celebration.

Bobby Davis is a rifleman, an unadorned private first class, and if you want to know about the war, then you must know about Bobby Davis.

He has known both the sense of helpless fury and the thrill of being a conqueror of Korea. Mostly he has plugged along hoping somewhere to have a hot bat. And most important to Bobby Davis, who is 19 and no coward, is the fact he has never been scratched in battle.

It gives Davis a strong sense of accomplishment, never having been wounded. There were 160 men in his rifle company when it docked at Pusan July 3 with other units of the 24th Division. There are 30 of them left now. Only 14 of these never have been hospitalized.

Bobby Davis is proud to have been that lucky so far. He has never thought of himself as a particularly good soldier, which he is.

This boy, two years out of Hazard, Ky. high school, is not talkative but he is articulate enough when he has something to say. What has passed before his eyes in this war will always be part of him.

No soldier ever forgets. But he will never be changed by it because Bobby Davis is one of the fortunate ones who is too strong to be made different by war.

Bobby Davis who does not yet shave, remembers that when the 24th landed in Korea "everybody thought it was more or less a play job."

"We figured it would last three or four weeks and everybody was kind of looking forward to it. I was too."

Bobby Davis was not looking forward to it after the morning of July 10 when he first learned about the North Koreans and tanks and ambushes.

That was at Chochiwon where they ran tanks right into our positions—right into our foxholes—and ran them behind us at the same time. The battalion lost most of its men."

What remained of Bobby Davis's company and a second company—120 men altogether—were told one night they would be the rear guard covering the retreat of the 19th and 34th regiments at Taejon.

The two shattered companies carried out their assignment and then withdrew.

When Bobby Davis talks now about the days of constant retreat and sorrow his voice seems to carry an unreal quality about it and often it trails off into silence as though he has become lost in memories almost to be cherished because he can hope they are never to be repeated.

Later there were holding actions around the Pusan perimeter where the defense ordered by the generals had been held by a sometimes nearly invisible line of men who, like Bobby Davis, often did not know what the fight in Korea is all about.

On the day the 24th Division broke out of the tight little perimeter and across the Nakdong river Bobby Davis was made a squad leader.

His squad had reached Nam-sido, 14 miles from the Manchurian border on Nov. 2 when the troops were ordered back because of the Chinese Communist threat to their rear.

Bobby Davis said he once thought of leaving the Army as soon as his enlistment ended, but now he does not know about that.

Already in two years time and in five months of war, Bobby Davis perhaps has been thinking like a soldier too long ever to be comfortable as a civilian.

His father, who runs a business in Hazard, was against his joining the Army in the first erov—one of Korea's prime sources of electric power—but that none remained there.

The front dispatch from Tress said the Marines encountered only light resistance from Red units which left hurriedly when the Leathernecks appeared.
Col. Homer Litzberg, commander of the Marines' Seventh Regiment, expressed the belief the enemy in the sector consists of Chinese Red troops who were cut off when the Leathernecks made their swift advance to Kotori last week.

THE COLONEL said he believes enemy units his men now are meeting have lost communications with the main body of Chinese troops who, he added, have probably withdrawn from the Changjin reservoir area.
But in the area just east of the 35-mile Chongchon arc, powerful Communist forces pressed what MacArthur described as "a determined counter-attack" which hurled back South Korean troops two and a half miles.
Supporting U. S. planes killed about 1,000 of the attacking enemy troops Sunday.
Still farther east, troops of the recently-landed U. S. Third Infantry Division and of the U. S. Eighth Army's Rok (Republic of Korea) Second Corps consolidated a junction effected Sunday.
Thus, the Eighth Army and the U. S. 10th Corps joined forces for the first time to establish a solid line across the peninsula's 110-mile-long "waist."

Employee Held For Use Of Company Checks

HAMILTON, Nov. 13—An employee who is accused of helping himself to two of his employer's checks was returned here from Greensburg, Ky., today and booked on charges of forgery.
The suspect, registered as Louis Bishop, 24, formerly worked for the Wittman Tent and Awning Co.
Bishop told police he found two blank checks in the door pocket on the company's truck and filled them out and cashed them at local business establishments.
John A. Bippus, Police Chief, said Bishop obtained $14 in cash after presenting one at the Hamilton Outlet Store in payment for a purchase and $10 at the F. and E. Motors. The $10 check was given as part payment on an automobile.
Both checks were cashed Oct. 24.
Albert Bean, 37, of London, picked up here when allegedly attempting to pass a check at the Wilbur's store, will be turned over to authorities at Wilmington, where he is wanted on a charge of forgery.

First Methodist Church Calling Special Parley

A business meeting of vital importance to members of Circleville First Methodist church is scheduled for Tuesday evening.
The Rev. Robert Weaver, pastor of the local church, said that the meeting, which will start at 7:30 p. m., will be open to all members of the congregation.
He urged a good attendance.
The minister added that officially the meeting will be known as a parley of the church's official board and quarterly conference session.
Dr. Wilson of Lancaster, superintendent of this Methodist district, will be present at the meeting.
He is scheduled to complete organization of the boards of the church. Rev. Mr. Weaver reported that a discussion will center on a policy regarding rotation of board members and years they will serve.

Workers Given Birthday Gift

MIDDLETOWN, Nov. 13—Employees of Gardner Board and Carton Co. plants in Middletown and Lockland have a new slant on birthday gifts.
The firm's 2,000 employees each received an extra $50 in their pay envelopes last week—not because it was their birthday but it was the company's 50th anniversary.
The birthday gift also went to company pensioners and to those on leave of absence for military service.

South Bloomfield Mayor Witness In Traffic Case

Mayor Walter Heise of South Bloomfield played a new role here last weekend.
The mayor, accustomed to hearing evidence in traffic cases, for once was the complaining witness.
Heise said he trailed Alvin Gold of Washington D. C. down Route 23 and that the man crossed the yellow no-passing line at least three times and operated his auto recklessly.
Gold pleaded guilty before Magistrate Oscar Root after he had been arrested by Deputy Walter Richards and was fined $25 and costs for reckless operation and $25 and costs for crossing the yellow lines.

Home-Hospital Moving To New Location

Circleville Home and Hospital was moving into its new location at 158 East Mound street Monday.
Mrs. James Moffitt, assistant manager of the home, said that about 32 patients will be involved in the moving.
"We should be able to handle about 15 new patients after we move into our new home," Mrs. Moffitt said.
The move from South Scioto street is expected to be completed by Tuesday, although painters and carpenters are still busy readying the new home.

2 Youths Named As Winners Of 'Peace' Contests

Beverly Reid and James Bartholomew, both of Circleville high school, are to represent the city during the district "Prince Of Peace" declamation contest.

Miss Reid earned the right to participate in the contest Sunday in First Methodist church while Bartholomew was selected during a Trinity Lutheran church Brotherhood meeting last week.

Alternates for the pair are John Lampton and Milton Spangler, who ranked second in the contests.

Both first place winners received bronze medal awards for their efforts and are expected to compete in a three-county contest about Dec. 10.

Winner of the district test will advance into the state contest, where first place winner will receive a four-year college scholarship and $400. Second in the state test will receive a two-year scholarship and $200, while third place will receive a one-year scholarship and $100.

A total of eight youngsters spoke in the two local declamation contests.

Circleville Sells Its 'Boneyard' For Only $350

Circleville sold its "boneyard" Monday for $350.
Service Director John Neuding said the property was sold to Forrest Wood of East Ohio street, who was the highest bidder on the three and three-fourths acre tract located on Island Road near Red Bridge.
The city acquired the property about 75 years ago to use as a "boneyard" to bury dead animals.

This, according to Clerk of City Council Fred Nicholas, was in the days before rendering firms wanted the animals.

Before the new county dog pound was built near Pickaway County Home, the tract was used for the city dog pound.

Service Director Neuding was authorized to sell the land by city council. The property was sold by sealed bids.
Neuding said low bid on the tract was for $101.

DEATHS and Funerals

CLARENCE WALLACE
Clarence Bryan Wallace, 53, of New Holland died in White Cross hospital, Columbus, at 11 a. m. Sunday where he had been admitted Saturday. A building construction employe and farmer, he had lived in the New Holland community 24 years.

He was born Oct. 10, 1897, near Williamsport, the son of Frank and Mary Maley Wallace. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Gertrude Tatman Wallace; a son, Richard Wallace of New Holland; two daughters, Mrs. Reuben Cupp Jr. of New Holland Route 2 and Mrs. Harold Coleman of Greenfield; a brother, Roscoe Wallace of Circleville; three sisters, Mrs. Letha Essick, Mrs. Richard Byers, Mrs. Howard Cook, all of Circleville Route 2; and five grandchildren.

He was a member of Methodist church and Moose Lodge.

Funeral services will be conducted by Rev. John Tigner in Defenbaugh Funeral Home at 2 p. m. Wednesday. Burial will be in New Holland cemetery.

Friends may call in the funeral home Monday evening, at the residence in New Holland Tuesday noon until 10 a. m. Wednesday.

MRS. ELIAS STARKEY

Mrs. Starkey, 82, who made her home with a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Starkey of 420 South Court street, died unexpectedly at 11 a. m. Saturday in the yard of a relative, Mrs. Lottie Clark of Logan. Death was caused by heart attack.

She was born in Jackson Mills, W. Va., July 13, 1866.

Surviving also are another son, Jesse Starkey of 375 Walnut street, 10 grand children, 17 great grandchildren; a brother, Jesse Holt of Jackson Mills, and a half-brother, Clark Tenny of Canal Winchester.

She was a member of First Evangelical United Brethren church. The Rev. Carl Wilson will officiate at funeral services to be held at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday in Defenbaugh Funeral Home. Burial will be in Reber Hill cemetery, with grandsons serving as pallbearers.

Friends may call in the funeral home.

Crooksville Man Bound To Grand Jury In Theft

Pearl Roth, 51, of Crooksville, was held for Pickaway County grand jury action last weekend in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root for allegedly stealing wheat from a government granary in Jackson Township.

Roth is accused of stealing 219 bushels of wheat valued at more than $400 from the granaries located at Route 56 and the Darbyville Pike, west of Circleville.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff accused the man of backing his truck to one of the bins, ripping a hole in the corrugated steel and filling the truck from the flow from the hole.

Radcliff added that Roth confessed to selling the grain later in Huntington, W. Va., for $2.07 per bushel. The man was arrested by Sheriff E. M. Midkiff after he had received a card from the local department alerting him for the sale.

where they were given emergency treatment and released.
At 9:30 p. m. Sunday on Route 23 about seven miles north of Circleville two persons were hurt when two autos crashed nearly head-on.

Wells said an auto operated South on the highway by Virgil Penwell, 31, of Columbus, attempted to pass a truck.

The patrolman said the Penwell auto was nearly around the truck when the driver spotted an approaching auto, operated by Oscar McFann, 22, also of Columbus.

"Penwell tried to make the left-hand ditch to avoid a head-on collision," said Wells, "but he didn't quite make it."

The Penwell auto was struck by the McFann car and turned over.

Mrs. Stella Penwell, 28, wife of the driver, suffered bruises in the crash while Richard Penwell, 5, their son, suffered an eye laceration.

Penwell is to appear in Circleville mayor's court late Monday to answer an accusation of passing without an assured clear distance.

In View Of The News

By J. C. Oestreicher
INS Foreign Director

Plans reported made by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin for a special visit to Western Germany has raised the likelihood that a major change in the status of the Western Reich is imminent.

No official announcement of the trip has yet been made, but the British press is talking about it. Emphasis is being placed upon the state of Bevin's health, coupled with the possibility of an early new election in Great Britain.

The implication is that Bevin desires to liquidate the German problem before he retires from office and that the trip will be something of a gesture to underscore a detailed program already believed drawn up for settlement.

Initially, the Western Powers are going to end the state of war with Germany that has existed since Sept. 3, 1939.

The official attitude will be that France and England declared war upon the Hitler regime for its rash invasion of Poland, compelling both those nations to honor solemn treaty obligations.

Then will come the drafting of a peace treaty, but how this is to be done is an unanswered question and will remain so while Germany remains divided between East and West.

FULL DIPLOMATIC recognition and easing of many controls that are still rigorously enforced will come with the passage of time.

The Western Nations already are believed to have set a definite date for ending the state of war. Belgium has officially signified her willingness to do so, and some months ago there was general belief that Great Britain and France had reached full agreement on the subject.

Soviet Russian reaction to these measures will be interesting to watch and important in its significance to the world. There have been some definite signs that the Russians are working out a scheme to make of Eastern Germany a separate and independent nation within the Soviet sphere.

In other words, that part of the country will become a satellite of the Kremlin and once again the Allies may be placed in an awkward position. They are on record before the United Nations and elsewhere as vigorously opposing any further Communist expansion, either militarily, by infiltration or under the guise of palpably false and fabricated "civil war."

But if, by the same token, the Western Powers are going to take positive new measures regarding Germany and Soviet "reprisals" result, the position will be an uneasy one, to say the least, and it is impossible to predict what events will follow in their train.

Some of them, of course, are bound to be beneficial to the defense of Western Europe.

THE ALLIES have not yet agreed upon a definite plan for German mobilization and rearmament. It has been impossible to establish a workable whole out of the diverse suggestions which have been offered. Justified or not, there is a growing resentment in present-day Germany over an Allied decision which leaves the German people wondering what they are to be tomorrow and whether they ever again are to be subjects of a sovereign nation.

Except through their political leaders, they are powerless to complain, but there is no doubt that the average German would serve only grudgingly under a foreign commander while mothers and fathers might start a passive resistance movement against such conscription that could wreck the country's precarious economy.

In all probability, Bevin hopes that his visit will set the seal on a restored Anglo-German friendship which in turn should increase the measure of German cooperation.

Should the state of war be ended soon afterward, cooperation might be assured and the still vast resources of Germany harnessed effectively to the cause of peace and resistance to Communism.

Bevin then could resign with the words "mission accomplished." But just how permanent the solution might be is obviously impossible to forecast.

Local Driver Bound To Grand Jury By Court

Charles Cullums, 43, of 217 East High street has been bound over to Pickaway County grand jury on $500 bond in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller.

He was accused on an affidavit signed by Police Officer S. T.

Ross of driving on South Washington street while intoxicated.

Ross said Cullums, driving a truck, was involved in an accident with a car operated by Margaret Greeno of 620 Clinton street.

The accident took place at the intersection of Washington and Franklin streets when the Greeno car halted for a stop sign and Cullums' truck struck it from the rear, Ross said. Damage was minor, he added.

HELPING RED CHINA

WAR IN the Orient began in 1931, when Japan seized Manchuria. Thereafter, for a decade, the United States continued to ship raw materials of potential war use, including scrap iron and gasoline, to Japan, in spite of China's vigorous protests. These contributions to Japan's armament were in the end, turned against the United States.

From that experience, and in the light of current developments in Korea, shipments of war-essential materials to the Soviet Union and its satellites must be regarded as wickedly dangerous. Export of some, but not all, of such materials has been prohibited.

This prohibition, in the form of embargoes, requirement of export licenses, etc., is not effective. In the Orient red China has replaced prewar Japan as the recipient of potential war materials from the United States.

Two New York exporters revealed, at a Washington hearing, that their concerns had sold 4,000,000 pounds of Japanese copper to red China within the last 12 months. The copper shipments were rerouted around the world through a loophole in United States trade regulations.

There have been other instances, such as shipments of boilers from German manufacturers to red China, some of which were routed through the United States. The Department of Commerce seems to have been unaware that technical loopholes existed. Such carelessness, in the face of the sacrifices being demanded for American rearmament, ought to be cause for dismissal.

Throughout the fighting in Korea the North Koreans received from Manchuria men trained in the Chinese communist armies. Now U. S. forces are battling entire Chinese divisions. Yet, through official carelessness red China has been getting potential war materials from the United States. Will Washington never learn the facts of modern international life?

One authority says a husband's love may be regained by changing the wallpaper. Good warm meals, served on time, are also effective.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Now that Soviet China is making war on us, it might be profitable to consider some of the extraordinarily curious notions that have, over the years, befuddled our relations with the countries of East Asia, where our boys are fighting and dying.

One of the most catastrophic concepts, propounded by State Department experts, has been the need for "reform." This idea is an emanation of the World War II policy that there are good dictators and bad dictators, good countries and bad countries, and that somehow we must make the bad ones over in our image. That concept was given the all-embracing term, Democracy.

By "reform," we had come to mean that each land, no matter what its traditions, must hold an election resembling perhaps the fracas in New York City this year, and must install a bookkeeping system based on IBM machines. Many countries in the world have no predisposition for such reforms and grow antagonistic to the United States when the subject is stressed. The recent outburst in the Philippines was characteristic of the East Asian attitude toward "reform."

If our objective is to use those countries as bases for the defense of our land, to contain our enemy and to lessen his effectiveness, then we have to take what we get there and do the best with the material available. That, it seems to me, is common sense.

Professor John K. Fairbank of Harvard, who is one of the Institute of Pacific Relations experts on Asia, has this to say:

"My own conclusion is that the effort to ally ourselves with 'nationalism' in Asia and to use it as a bulwark against Communism is a will-o'-the-wisp unless we combine 'nationalism' with 'reform' in a very specific and sophisticated manner. In the final analysis, 'reform' is the more fundamental force. The effort to comprehend the nature of the revolutionary process in Asia is the most pressing necessity in our current mobilization."

This paragraph begs the question of our present task, which is to prevent Soviet Russia from creating so preponderant a power that resistance to her will become impossible. Already, Russia holds the initiative in war by geographical advantage and by superior numbers, speedily mobilized. Our advantage is manufacturing facilities which Russia could, in time, equal. Her problem is time; our problem is to find allies for increased manpower and closer bases.

If we make it too difficult for our allies by preconceptions as to their purity of heart, we shall have no allies in the end. Once Russia equals our productivity, our advantage is gone and our defensive capacity will be imperiled.

This is our problem and we need to face it realistically. China has been in a state of reform since Confucius; it has practically been at war since then. In the last 100 years, many reform movements appeared in China: the Taiping rebellion; the Boxer rebellion; the Tungmenhui; the Kuomintang; the reform movement of Kang Yuwei and Liang Chi-chao—and many movements. All countries nearly always require reform.

Head Cold? It May Be An Allergy

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

BY this time most people know that many so-called colds have an allergic basis. That is, they are due to oversensitivity either to some food or to dusts and pollens. We are not, however, so familiar with the newer idea that both colds of this type and those due to infection in the nose or nasal sinuses have their underlying cause in emotional upsets.

Many people suffer from continual nasal discharge. These attacks may be brought on by a wide variety of trigger factors, such as drafts, dust, cold, dampness, excitement, or emotional stress, but all of these are thought to get their bad effects in the same way—by stimulation of the glands of internal secretion, particularly the adrenal glands which are located over the kidneys. These glands form a substance known as adrenaline. When adrenaline gets into the blood in increased amounts, there is a contraction of the blood vessels, a circumstance which is believed responsible for nasal congestion. Stimulation of the involuntary nervous system is thought to be the root cause of allergic colds or nasal discharge.

Allergic Colds

In those with allergic colds, the lining membrane of the nose is pale and swollen, the nasal discharge is watery, and contains many of the kind of white cells known as eosinophils. In those with colds due to infection, the lining membrane of the nose is red and swollen. The blood vessels are enlarged and the secretion contains the kind of white cells known as polymorphonuclear cells.

When a person has a continual nasal discharge, an examination by a physician should be carried out to determine its source. Once this is found, successful treatment can be outlined.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

S. D.: Is there any treatment for a uterus that is enlarged?

Answer: Enlargement of the uterus or womb may indicate the presence of some type of tumor growth. Hence, immediate examination by a physician is advisable to determine what disorder is present. Surgery may be required.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

The Republicans have so many presidential candidates lined up since last week there may not be enough smoke-filled rooms to go 'round in 1952.

Some say Dewey is already trying to get his hat back out of Eisenhower's ring. This would make his fourth time out for the nomination, but the track is still slippery.

And Taft won his election so handsomely we hear the next issue of the CIO News will come out with froth on the front page.

All we know is that anybody who played the CIO scratch sheet selections didn't double his money on any of the big races.

Warren and Duff also have moved into the aisle marked "Presidential Candidates Only" and will remain standing at ease until the countoff.

On the other hand we hear Harry may declare the whole election illegal as he was at sea when the votes were counted.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE
"DID HE say he would go abroad again?" she asked. "He's never mentioned it to me."

"He would not wish to alarm you before the event. Of course, you could remain here. But candidly—and I speak as a woman of the world—it would not be wise, surely?"

"I wouldn't get married," said Patty. "If my husband spent his time across a couple of oceans." She added, "But the book could be a success."

"Have you read it?" "He won't let anyone read it."

"Not even you, his dear friend and a writer?"

Patty looked as if she had been sharply pinched. She said, "Don't give me away, Mrs. Lennox. I'm not a writer. When I met Mike, I just said I was interested in writing. You know how it is, you find out what a man's steamed up about and you steam up too, if you're smart." She was so intent that she didn't see Liza's smile, which began and ended in her eyes. Nor could Patty read Liza's mind, which thought, "Mike doesn't meet Patty and she is steamed up over writing?"

But Patty was looking to her for agreement. And Liza agreed with gestures. "Alors," she said, "that follows."

"Anyway," said Patty. "I do read a lot at night, when I don't have a date, or don't have to wash my hair and all that. Not trash. I'm crazy about historical novels. Really good books. And books which tell you how to improve yourself."

Liza felt a pang of compunction, thinking, "She's too good for Michael anyway. Therefore, I proceed. She'd make a fine wife for the right man."

But she couldn't find a husband for Patty until she had extricated Michael. Meantime Patty continued her explanation.

"Somehow Mike thought I was trying to write. One thing led to another—"

"It often does."

"And I began to go downstairs and ask him about plots. He told me a lot. He'd get so excited, talking, he'd forget, sort of, about me. About my writing, that is. When he remembered, I'd tell him I hadn't done anything good enough to show him."

"We are poor creatures, we women," said Liza mournfully. "We do not wish to deceive, but men compel us." She shook her head, and added, "There is one solution. If the book should not be a success, and you persuaded Michael to remain here and take a position, or begin another book, you could go on working. You model, do you not? That must be marvelous."

"It's boring," said Patty. "When I think of the weeks I walked around with a book on my head ... just to wear bathing suits in winter and fur coats in summer and sit under terrible light and be moved around like a store-window dummy! Anyway I didn't plan to work after I married. I am sick and tired of it right now."

"Naturally," said Liza blandly. "You are a homemaker, and would prefer to putter around your own kitchen, have your own sweet little house, perhaps in the country, with an acre of land, a good, kind cow and the chickens."

"Well, I never thought of that, exactly," said Patty. "I mean I wouldn't want to be stuck in a kitchen forever... You're only young once..." She drew a deep breath. "You might know about this," she suggested. "Mike doesn't talk about himself, that is, about important things, like family and money and all that—but he did inherit some money. That's how he could take the time to write his book."

"I know about it. My husband consulted with me before he left Michael the legacy."

Patty said, "I'm sorry, I didn't mean to, well, pry. That is," she added, "not exactly."

I like her, thought Liza, she's quite an honest creature. In her way.

"It is not much," said Liza indifferently, "a small sum, a token of affection."

"Oh," said Patty. "Well, I didn't know."

However, thought Liza, this is not a mercenary girl. And she is attracted to Michael. But not too deeply. It will not hurt, much. She would like comforts, gaiety, good clothes and furs, trips to Bermuda, a well-trained maid, a pair of diamond bracelets. Who can blame her? Not I, who had none of these things before I met George. Patty has not had them either.

She said, "George—my husband—often talked with me of Michael. He told me of Michael's parents, the beautiful, unhappy mother," Liza went on, wondering if she, too, should take to the typewriter, as George's description of the late Mrs. Lennox had been unembroidered. Now Liza chose other colors, and threaded a sharper needle.

"Alas, his father—oh, that one, charming—very like Michael, I believe—and irresponsible. Money passed through his fingers—in the end there was none—that certain type of woman, you see, and of course gambling..." She caught herself up, looking distressed. "I should not have said that. I implore you not to speak of it to Michael. I doubt if he knew."

Patty said, "He never talked to me about his parents. I just knew they were dead. Funny, he didn't say you were French."

"Only half," said Liza. "She thought, I hope George will forgive me this, also Michael's parents, who had been, as far as she knew, wholly blameless, pleasant people."

Patty rose. She said, "We'd better go back, Mrs. Lennox, the boys will think we've passed out."

"It would be kind of you to call me Liza. I know so few young people and no woman at all of my own age," Liza said. "Could you have tea with me, at my hotel, one day soon? Wednesday at five? Good. And some day will you go see my apartment with me? I have taken a lease, I am furnishing it. Perhaps you would shop with me also? Michael went, one day, but it fatigued him and, frankly, me also. He looked at price tags, he bargained and argued with salespeople. Very embarrassing. I bought nothing that day."

"That doesn't sound like Mike."

"No? Ah, I see what you mean. But there are many such men," Liza said blandly, "who will squander a fortune upon their pleasures and requirements, and never give it a thought, but who cannot endure to see a woman spend money, even if it happens to be her own. Have you ever experienced this contradiction?"

When they returned to the table Michael was startled by Patty's expression. It was one he had never seen her wear, so he did not, for a moment, recognize it. Liza said, "Mike was merely looking thoughtful."

Then he looked at Liza. Bill seized Patty to propel her toward the dance floor and Michael offered Liza his handkerchief. "Wipe your mouth, Liza," he ordered.

"My lipstick is crooked?" she inquired. "Wait until I find my compact. No, not your handkerchief, Michael, how wasteful."

"Your lipstick is all right," he said, "but wipe your mouth, just the same. It's all over little, yellow feathers."

1—This noted singer and actor was born in Waco, Tex. Dec. 29, 1902. He was a student at Central Texas college in Waco, and studied voice in Rome and Paris. He was soloist with the Boston symphony orchestra in 1926. He created the leading stage roles in Deep River, Show Boat, The Voodoo King. In grand opera he appeared as Amonasro in Aida; as Tonio in Pagliacci, as Mephisto in Faust, Boris in Boris Godunov, and in stage plays, Brutus Jones in Emperor Jones. He made many appearances in recitals in the United States and Europe. He was also the composer of African Suite for violin and orchestra, and many songs—Does Ah Love You? Grandmother's Melodias, Beside a New-Made Grave, The Farewell, etc. He died in 1943. What was his name?

2—He was an Italian artist, metal worker and sculptor, born in Florence on Nov. 1, 1500. At 15 he was apprenticed to a goldsmith. Implicated in a brawl in Florence, he was banished to Sienna, and some of his work dates from this period—a silver casket, some silver candlesticks for a bishop, and a gold medalion of Leda and the Swan—the head and torso of Leda being cut in hard stone. It is now in the Vienna museum. Being pardoned and returning to Florence, he worked on medals, the most famous being Hercules and the Nemean Lion in gold repousse work. He also worked in Rome and Paris. Among his works of art (many of which have perished) were a colossal statue of Mars for a fountain in Fontainebleau, a life-sized statue of Jupiter, a salt-cellar made for Francis I at Vientral, and many medals and medals. He died in Florence, Feb. 14, 1571. Who was he?

Expect Truman to Request $23 Billion Budget Boost

Entire Increase earmarked for Arms of U. S., Allies

Special to Central Press
WASHINGTON—President Truman is expected to submit to Congress in January a government budget of about $65 billion an increase of $23 billions above the present budget.

The entire increase will be in arms to equip the expanded United States forces, Atlantic Pact nations, the Philippines, Turkey, Greece and other American allies.

This means even higher taxes, of course, as the administration repeatedly has warned. The President is insisting that the rearmament program should be financed on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Mr. Truman plans to ask Congress to revise the tax program substantially. He will request that the tax burden be shifted more heavily to the middle and upper income brackets and that higher estate and gift taxes be levied. An excess profits tax also is a certainty.

directly to those portions of the Hoover Commission's report which found early adoption" by Congress.

● FANFARE LIMITED—The Senate preparedness subcommittee is putting the needle into the defense program without the customary congressional fanfare of public hearings.

The group, headed by Senator Lyndon Johnson (D), Texas, has had a few public sessions and may have others, but regards the open hearings as too costly in time.

Johnson's committee brought out a stinging initial report lambasting the situation on rubber without having gone through all the usual public fanfare.

The committee is now launching a new inquiry of the aluminum production situation—which may top all others in importance. But even this investigation may be conducted behind closed doors without lengthy public testimony.

● MEDICAL AID—A House armed services subcommittee will make a fight after the November elections for a clear-cut wording of the law giving medical assistance to dependents of military personnel.

The Navy at present is the only one of the armed services authorized under specific legislation to care for dependents. The service has been granted in the past to the Army and Air Force, but there's no authorization now for those branches.

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers (D), South Carolina, chairman of the subcommittee, has won the support of Armed Services Committee Chairman Carl Vinson (D), Georgia, and other committee members for revision of the present law so that there can be no doubt of dependents of men in all branches getting medical aid.

● FARM INCOME UP—Agriculture department officials expect farm income to be substantially higher next year than the anticipated return to farmers for 1950.

This poses an important economic question: Will farm income go up fast enough to keep pace with rising operating costs?

For example, predictions are that farm machinery prices will be at new high levels. Also, there may be a rise in wages to be paid to farm workers.

Agriculture department officials haven't admitted it, but they're frantically looking around for some way to prevent a modern recurrence of the old fable that begins: "For want of a nail, a shoe was lost; for want of a shoe, a horse was lost, etc."

Tips On Purchasing Mixer As Yule Gift Are Given By County Agent

Miss Alley Cites Faults

"Electric mixers are included in many a Christmas list," says Miss Genevieve Alley, home demonstration agent of Pickaway County. She said:

"Since a lot of folks are purchasing mixers for the first time, here are some timely hints gleaned from home management department of Ohio State university."

"When you're looking at a mixer, the first thing to check is the motor. A motor of at least 120 to 125 watts is best. A radio interference eliminator should be included. The number of speeds on a mixer varies from 3 to 20, and it's handy to have a good choice of speeds for different jobs."

Miss Alley says that the beaters should be rust-proof and easy to wash. Both the beaters and the bowls will be less difficult to remove if the motor tilt back easily.

"Another thing," Miss Alley says, "since many homemakers like to use the beater at the stove or in another location, it's important that the motor and beaters can be removed from the stand or bowl platform without too much effort."

Some slide off while others must be released with a lever or thumb screw. The mixing stand needs to be heavy enough to be stationary, even when the motor and beaters have been removed.

Miss Alley says bowls which come with the mixer should have practically straight sides. They are easier to handle if the outside is ribbed. The bowl platform should revolve slowly while the motor is operating to improve the mixing. She continued:

"If you buy attachments, check them over to see how easily they can be used and kept clean. With most mixers it is necessary to buy an extra power unit in order to use attachments such as the meat grinder, shredder, or pea sheller. But now some machines on the market have a built-in power unit for attachments."

"After you buy a mixer," Miss Alley concludes, "let it do as much of your work for you as possible. Whether you use your mixer often depends on where it is stored. That's why it's important to keep it out where it can be used easily."

'THROW OFF CAMOUFLAGE'

Girls' Scanty Swim Suits Rapped By Woman Nudist

LONDON, Nov. 13—Britain's No. 1 woman nudist, Sylvia Bassam, challenged modern woman today to shed her "fear of being unattractive" without those scanty bits of man-attracting camouflage she wears.

Mrs. Bassam—young, pretty and the color of dark ale all over—promised that woman "will not lose" by airing their goose pimples.

There are, she noted, "just as many romances in a sun club as there are in any tennis or social club."

Speaking as vice-president of the British Sun Bathing Association—the only organization of its kind in Britain—she insisted that a young man does not fall in love with a brief costume, but with the individual.

"If a girl has to rely on three bits of cloth to attract a mate, I say she will not necessarily keep him for a lifetime," declared the slim, trim Mrs. Bassam.

THE REASON for her stark statement is the fact that women, particularly single girls, are reluctant to cast away their clothes and false modesty and join a sun club. She said:

"They will lounge about on a beach practically naked, but they fight shy of taking off the very little they do wear."

The nudist leader said it's partly Mama's fault for the modern girl "is so often taught from babyhood that she must keep herself covered, that she must keep that skirt below her knees." She continued:

"Again I feel that the average girl thinks she may be classed as 'cheap' if she is known to belong to a community which dispenses with all its clothes in a mixed gathering."

"There is also the fact that a girl undoubtedly feels more attractive in the briefest costume on the beach."

"I see no reason why she should not have a suitable sun suit for the beaches—have one or two myself—but I do fail to see why she does not dispense with it mentally and decide to give naturism a trial."

"She will not lose by it. Indeed, she does not realize the friendship, camaraderie and inner satisfaction she will gain from membership in a sun club. She need feel no fear of being unattractive."

MRS. BASSAM disclosed that the biggest problem facing her organization is not that of keeping out "Peeping Toms" but of getting in the single young men who want to join.

"Nearly every club has a long waiting list of would-be members who are single males," Mrs. Bassam explained. "We try to balance the sexes as much as possible. Unfortunately there aren't enough single girl candidates and so the boys have to wait."

Defective Flue Is Cause Of Saturday Fire

Circleville fire department responded to a call from the Freda Hoffman home on East Mill street Saturday.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said the blaze was caused by a defective chimney. He said the fire ate its way to the outside of the house, then burned up the outside siding to the attic.

"There was quite a lot of damage, both from fire and water," Chief Wise said.

He said the fire department was notified by Mrs. Hoffman, who told him she had awakened choking from the smoke.

No one was injured, the chief added.

house. Josephine Bartley and Mrs. E. W. Bisell, who have been occupying the lower apartment, have taken a second floor apartment.

Pitching Horseshoes

By BILLY ROSE

Whenever an out-of-towner says, "What have you got in New York that we haven't got in Punksstawney," I throw a copy of the Manhattan Classified Phone Directory at him. On page 1067, listed under "Missing Heirs," is a man named Theodore W. Roth whose business it is to find money.

I first heard of this gent on a radio program and this morning, in a mood to muse and meander, I stopped in to see him at his office on West 42nd Street.

"Glad to see you," said Mr. Roth. "You don't happen to be related to a Sam Bramson of Paterson, do you?"

"Not that I know of," I said. "Too bad," said Mr. Roth. Bramson left a hundred thousand dollars and I'm trying to find a relative I can give it to."

"Is there much unclaimed money lying around?"

"About eight billion dollars," said Mr. Roth. "Mostly in forgotten bank accounts, stock held in escrow, uncollected insurance policies and inheritances nobody has claimed."

"What's the biggest case you ever worked on?" I asked.

"THE GARRETT CASE in Philadelphia," said Mr. Roth. "Back in 1930 a lady named Henrietta Edwina Garrett died and left property worth forty million dollars. So far over six thousand people have claimed it, six of them have been thrown into jail, a couple have committed suicide, and several lawyers have been disbarred for phonying up evidence. One of the applicants was Adolph Hitler who argued that the next of kin was a German citizen and that the money should be sent to the Fatherland. I'm happy to report he didn't get it."

"You must meet a lot of screwballs in your profession," I said.

Mr. Roth dug into his desk and brought out a letter. It was from a woman in Massachusetts who claimed that one of her ancestors had deeded a cranberry bog to an Indian squaw, but that the deed was faulty and she wanted the property back.

The bog, she explained, is now known as Manhattan Island.

"Last year," Mr. Roth went on, "I got one that was even wackier. A girl in Texas wrote in to say that only a second cousin stood between her and a chunk of oil land worth a million dollars. She was planning to murder her kinsman, but before going to all that trouble she wanted me to check and make sure her claim to the estate would be clear and undisputed. I, of course, turned the letter over to the police."

"Do you have any trouble collecting your fees?" I asked. "As a rule," said the climber of family trees, "the heirs I turn up are pretty grateful. There have been cases, of course, where the only thanks I got was a dirty look."

"As for instance?"

"WELL," said Mr. Roth, "there was the time a widow refused to believe me when I told her I had located a twelve-thousand-dollar bank account left by her husband. I finally convinced her to sign the necessary papers, but when I handed her the twelve thousand, she said, 'I curse the day I ever met you and I curse this money too.'"

"It turned out she had always loved her husband and was devoted to his memory, despite the fact that their life together had been a hard one. He had always pleaded poverty when she needed a dress or a new pair of stockings, and she had believed him. Now that she saw him for what he was, she was understandably bitter."

"Sure, twelve thousand dollars was a lot of money, but it had destroyed the faith of a lifetime."

Naval Reserve Recall Policy Is Outlined

The Columbus recruiting office for the U. S. Navy this week released a statement of policy concerning the recall of naval reservists.

Lt. Cmdr. William M. Hicks, USNR, public information officer, said that the policies are based on a gradual enlargement of the Navy to a stabilized level.

He said they would not be applicable if the international situation became such as to require general all-out mobilization of the armed forces.

It is planned immediately to implement a policy requiring that all Reservists recalled to active duty be given 30 days' notice prior to reporting for duty.

At the earliest practicable time a program will be established to provide four months' notice for Reservists recalled to active duty. This plan will be effective by July 1, 1951, and earlier, if practicable.

BOTH ORGANIZED and Volunteer Reserve personnel are subject to involuntary recall, in a priority basis, Organized Reserve personnel first and Volunteer Reserve personnel second, as necessary to meet the requirements of the Navy.

However, personnel transferred from a Volunteer to an Organized status after Oct. 15, 1950, will be recalled on a Volunteer priority basis.

Deferments may be obtained by individuals filling key positions in industry, positions essential to community welfare, cases involving personal extreme hardship, having four or more dependents or is completing a school term in college or an equivalent institution.

The present law provides that the maximum period of involuntary duty shall not exceed 21 months. The release of enlisted personnel is planned to start in July of 1951 and officer personnel will be released to inactive duty commencing October of 1951. Officer and enlisted personnel released to inactive duty will be replaced by personnel recruited for the Regular Navy

Next Year's Crops Look Very Good

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—Now that the 1950 Fall harvest season is almost completed, the government is looking toward next year's crop production. It or by the involuntary recall of Reservists who have not had active duty service since World War II.

reports Fall seeding well advanced in most areas.

The Agriculture Department says that seeding is going along fine, with good stands of grain "developing well."

In the Great Plains the season was practically ideal for seeding wheat, with fields well prepared and ample moisture at the time of seeding. "Volunteer" wheat furnished pasture early, but the warm, dry October weather and heavy leaf rust caused rapid deterioration in the latter part of that month.

The department reports that subsoil moisture is mostly adequate in the Great Plains area, but the top soil in large sections is dry and not firm enough to prevent pulling out of shallow-rooted plants in grazing.

In California, where most of the seeding is done in December and January, a start already is reported, with soil moisture said to be satisfactory.

And in the South, preparation of fields and seeding of all grains is advanced for this time of year.

Summing the situation up, cheerily, the department says: "The 1951 wheat crop is starting off excellently—as a general rule."

3 Local Rural Mail Carriers Due To End 30 Years Service Same Day

Three of Circleville Postoffice's rural mail carriers will complete 30 years of such federal service on the same day—Nov. 15.

They are Warren Baker, Paul Betz and William Betts Jr.

Each received a permanent appointment as rural mail carrier Nov. 15, 1920, each is "going just as strong" today as he was in 1920.

Baker drove 25 miles a day then, serviced about 100 rural boxes. Now, he drives 60 miles, is responsible for getting mail into 375 boxes.

Betts drove 23 miles in 1920 to deliver mail to 130 boxes. Now he has 60 miles and 260 boxes.

Betz had 90 boxes in 1920 and covered 24 miles. Today's schedule calls for traveling 83 miles to reach 134 boxes.

Have these 30 years been good years? Ask any one of the three and he will tell you that if he had to do it all over again—yes, he would be a rural mail carrier.

However, it is impossible to achieve great reforms, even within the traditions of a people, and at the same time, hold off foreign colonialism, foreign wars and indigenous civil wars. When the wealth of a people is being expended on war, it cannot be expended on much else. This we have been witnessing even in the "rich" United States.

So the reforms did not amount to much at any time; in fact, the impact of the West upon China since the 1830s produced a degenerative tendency in that country; the old ways withering; the new ways not fruitifying.

Professor Fairbank also had this to say:

"The use of our China policy as a political football in the contest between the Republican and Democratic Parties has been regrettable, if not indeed disastrous; but it could hardly have occurred if the American public had been united in its understanding of the revolutionary process in China."

But that is altogether untrue. In fact, exactly the opposite is true, namely, that the widespread discussion of our East Asian policy in Congress and in the press has made the American people aware that serious blunders had been made and gave ample warning that the policy of error, conceived by Alger Hiss and his associates, had to be reversed. It was too late, however, to save us from bloodshed.

Fire Destroys Dayton Church
DAYTON, Nov. 13—Fire early yesterday destroyed the East Dayton Evangelical United Brethren Church with a loss Dr. Charles White, pastor, estimated at $180,000.

Forrest B. Lucas, acting fire chief, said defective wiring probably caused the blaze.

Lucas said a woman motorist saw the church's roof blazing and notified a nearby fire company, but when firemen arrived they could do little except prevent the blaze from spreading to nearby homes.

Services of the congregation were moved to the auditorium of Wilbur Wright high school.

The church's annual general conference is being held here through Thursday.

Columbus To Get 156 New Homes
COLUMBUS, Nov. 13 — Construction of a $3 million housing project in the Eastern Columbus suburb of Whitehall is expected to get underway this week.

The development which will consist of 156 stone and frame structures housing 384 apartments will be constructed on a 40-acre site and is expected to be completed within a year.

A new corporation, Parklawn Manor, Inc., will back the project. The homes will be within walking distance of the Curtiss Wright plant which will be taken over this month by North American Aviation, Inc., a California firm.

CHS As Great On Paper As On Gridiron In 1950

Circleville's 1950 championship Tiger football team is as great on paper as it was on the battlefield.

According to statistics compiled for the season, the Tigers romped a total of 3,045 yards in nine games to score 51 touchdowns.

With those figures, Circleville earned eight victories in nine starts during its 1950 season while winning its third South Central Ohio League championship in as many years without a league defeat.

And those figures show that the highly successful Tigers scored an average of 5.6 time per game during its season while earning an average of 338.3 yards per game.

The Circleville team was stingy with its opposition during its season, however.

THE CHS'ERS allowed their opponents to score only 19 times during the season for an average of 2.1 TDs per game, and allowed the opposition to earn only 1,741 yards for the season or 193.4 yards per game.

Circleville was aided in the scoring department by a two-point safety against Holy Rosary in its season opener, while it collected a total of 23 points after touchdown.

Its opposition earned only seven extra points after touchdown during the season.

John "Dixie" Harris, zipping through right tackle quick-openers during the season, turned in the top scoring performance for the Tigers this season.

The speedy setback hurtled through the opposition for a total of 16 touchdowns during the season, chalking up a total of 96 points for the ram-paging Tigers.

Segura Whips Jack Kramer

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 13—Panchito Segura defeated Jack Kramer 6-6, 7-5, 6-2, last night in the fourteenth encounter of their nationwide professional tennis tour.

Kramer still leads the series with nine victories over Segura. Gorgeous Gussie Moran and Mrs. Pauline Betz Addie battled to a draw in their match. Gussie won the first set, 6-2, but Mrs. Addie came back to win the second, 6-1.

In the mixed doubles, Kramer and Miss Moran defeated Segura and Mrs. Betz 6-4, 6-3.

Second in scoring were Big John Valentine, pile-driver Tiger Fullback and key defensive player, and Right Halfback Phil Heise, who tallied eight touchdowns apiece for the season.

Unlike last year's perfect Tiger team, which swept through its nine-game schedule without a loss, this year's Tiger squad featured team play more than individual scoring and a total of 11 Tigers broke into the scoring column.

Third in scoring for the season was End Dave Coffland, who hauled down four Tiger aerials good for TD's.

QUARTERBACK JERRY Rooney and Fullback Cecil "The Champ" Sowers, were next in line during the year with three TDs apiece, while End Don Mancini, Halfback Ted Raymond, Quarterback Jerry Pritchard and Halfback Jim George were next with two scores each.

Jim Cook of Ashville, playing his first year of football this season, earned one touchdown for the CHS team from his half-back slot.

But Tackle John Cockrell, who lost a front tooth in Circleville's final contest last Friday against Washington C. H., also contributed his part in Circleville's victories.

Early this season the CHS'ers were worried about extra points after scoring only two in its first few contests, those via passes to Don Mancini.

HOWEVER, COCKRELL polished up his toe for the remainder of the season to net a total of 21 placement conversions, 11 in one game.

The Tigers showed well in the first downs department for the season, also. The locals netted a total of 125 first downs for an average of 13.8 per game while allowing the opposition only 94 for an average of only 10.4 per game.

Circleville flubbed in one department, however.

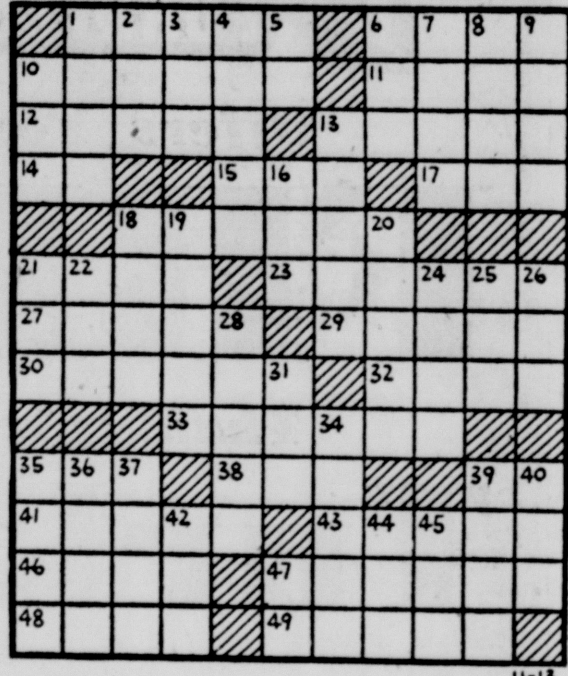

That was in the penalty department, where it lost a total of 398 yards for the season for an average setback of 44.2 yards per game. Its opposition lost only 250 yards via penalties, an average of only 27.7 yards per game.

Last year's perfect record contained a total of 64 touchdowns for the Tigers plus 31 extra points, equalling 415 points for the season.

Pacific Coast To Get Chance To See Vaunted Army Grid Outfit

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—Pacific Coast residents will get a chance Saturday to see if it's true what they say about Army.

The mighty, top-ranking Cadets make their first Pacific Coast jaunt in 21 years to meet twice-beaten Stanford in Palo Alto, Cal.

This promises to be one of three top drawer games marking the stretch drive of the college football season. The other two pit Ohio State against Illinois and unblemished Princeton against Yale.

Army's Black Knights, who have gone 27 games without a loss, will be out to atone for a 34-14 licking they got from the Indians back in 1929, the first time they went to the coast. What's more, Stanford holds a 2-1 edge in the series between the teams.

The West Pointers warmed up for the task by pulverizing under-manned New Mexico, 51 to 0. Coach Red Blaik wasn't even present. He was busy scouting Navy for his team's season closer.

Army, Kentucky, California, Princeton, Wyoming and Oklahoma remained in the select circle of unbeaten, untied big boys. Miami of Florida fell by the wayside into the once-tied group by getting into a 13-to-13 deadlock with Louisville last Friday night.

AMONG THE LITTLE college biggies, Lehigh and Loyola of Los Angeles kept their slates clean.

Kentucky's Wildcats blasted Mississippi State, 48 to 21 for their ninth straight win.

California belted UCLA, 35 to 0 and moved into an almost certain Rose Bowl return bid. The Bears have won 32 straight regular season games.

Oklahoma made it 28 straight victories by burying Kansas, 33 to 13 while Wyoming snowballed Brigham Young, 48 to 0 for its eighth in a row.

Princeton continued toward its first unbeaten season since 1935 by shellacking helpless Harvard, 63 to 26. It was the worst licking in Harvard history. The Tigers go up against Yale in a Big Three thriller Saturday.

Once-tied Clemson bounced Boston college, 35 to 14. Lehigh made it eight straight by routing previously unbeaten Carnegie Tech, 66 to 0, while Loyola took Fresno State, 28 to 0. Ohio State, Illinois, Texas, Tennessee, Nebraska, Wake Forest and Michigan State stayed with the once-beaten, but Vanderbilt, Southern Methodist, and Wisconsin fell out.

The Buckeyes, who can't go back to the Rose Bowl this season because they went last, beat Wisconsin, 19 to 14. The Badgers and the Illini, 21 to 7 victors over Iowa, are battling for the honor.

Other scores: Tennessee 48, Tennessee Tech 14; Texas 27, Baylor 20; Nebraska 49, Kansas State 21; Wake Forest 13, Duke 7; Michigan State 27, Minnesota 0; LSU 33, Vanderbilt 7; Texas A and M 25, SMU 20; Fordham 14, Georgetown 13; Cornell 26, Colgate 18; Dartmouth 14, Columbia 7; Tulane 27, Navy 0; Penn 50, Brown 0; Michigan 20, Indiana 7; Alabama 53, Mississippi Southern 0; Rice 9, Arkansas 6; VMI 14, Georgia Tech 13; Citadel 19, South Carolina 7; Maryland 7, North Carolina 7; Notre Dame 16, Pitt 7; Northwestern 19, Purdue 14; Stanford 28, Washington State 18; Washington 27, Oregon 12; Oregon State 34, Idaho 19.

Heavy Schedule Is Set Up For Buckeye Cagers

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13—Ohio State's defending Western Conference basketball champions will play a schedule of 22 games—the heaviest card permitted under Big Ten rules.

Half of the games will be played on the road. Ohio State's schedule includes: Dec. 4 Kansas State; Dec. 6 Butler; Dec. 9 at Marquette; Dec. 11 Missouri; Dec. 23 St. Louis; Dec. 29 Princeton at Michigan State; Dec. 30 Penn State at Michigan State.

Tony Curcillo Hurt In Game

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13—Illinois may find things easier going next Saturday against Ohio State if Quarterback Tony Curcillo's injured ankle keeps him from the Buckeye offense lineup.

Curcillo hurt his ankle Saturday when he snagged an aerial from Vic Janowicz and went down under Wisconsin's line-men.

If Curcillo can't make it, Janowicz probably will move into quarterback spot or Dick Wid-does may fall into the slot.

Denver '5' Wins On Charity Line

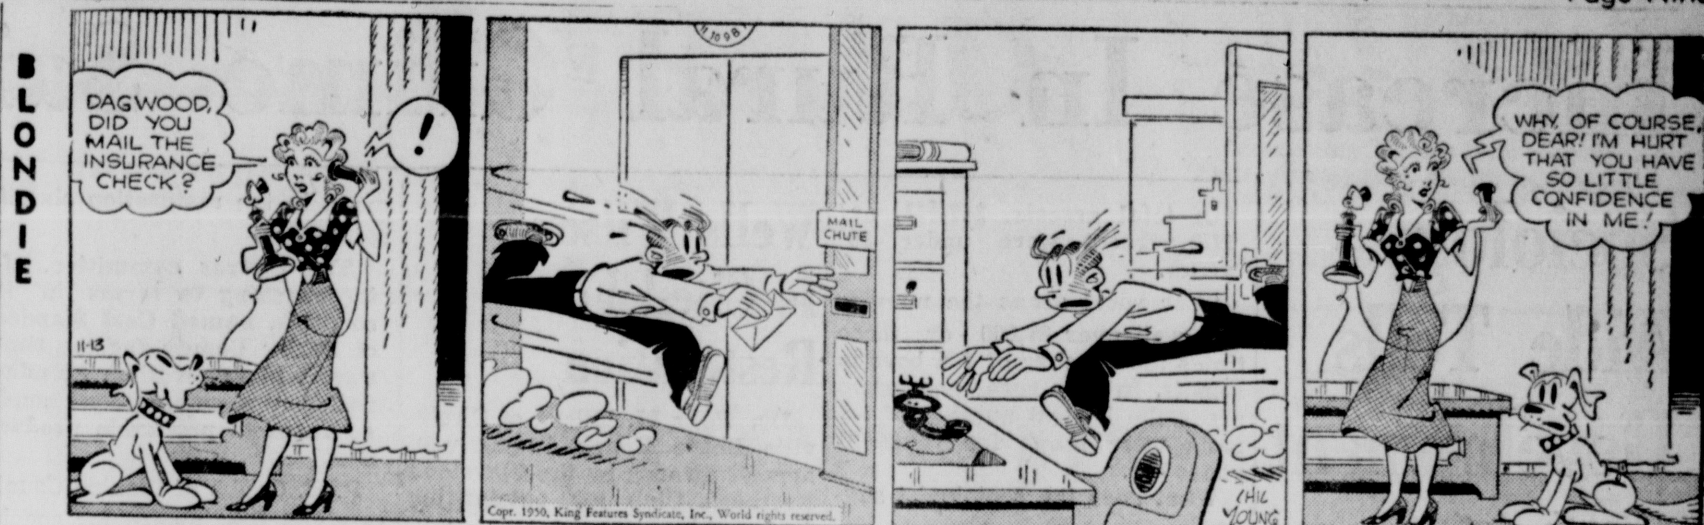

DENVER, Nov. 13—The Denver Frontier Refiners made good on free throws last night to take their season opener in the National Professional Basketball League, 71 to 64, over the visiting Grand Rapids Hornets.

The Hornets led 34 to 33 at the half.

The Refiners had 33 successful free throws to the visitors' 14, but Denver made only 19 from the field while the Hornets tossed 25.

Increase In Rural Crime Said To Be Cause For Concern

Sociology Aide Tells Development

Youth Activities Said Solution

Are farmers going to lose—not necessarily by their own behavior—their reputation for peaceful and law-abiding living? That was the question asked by Larry Best, Pickaway County agricultural extension agent, Monday as he studied a report made by David E. Lindstrom, chief in rural sociology at the University of Illinois.

Citing that rural crime has doubled from 1948 to 1949, Lindstrom feels there is cause for concern.

One in ten of the major crimes in the United States last year was committed in the country, Lindstrom points out. Crime in rural areas went up 8.5 percent last year. Another jump of 7.4 percent was reported by the FBI for the first half of 1950.

"On the basis of crimes for each 100,000 people cities still lead in the offenses against property and aggravated assault," Lindstrom says. "But the rural rate has forged ahead in many other classifications."

"FOR MURDER the rural rate was 5.52 compared with 3.78 for towns under 10,000. For negligent manslaughter the rural rate was 4.21, city 3.32 and town 1.97. For rape the rural rate was 12.38, city 12.49 and town 7.84. For aggravated assault the rural rate was 35.8, city 82.6, town 33.7."

"Proportion of property crimes are still about twice as high in the city as in the country," Lindstrom says. "But number of burglaries alone in rural areas went up more than 17 percent from 1948 to 1949. That was about three times the increase in urban areas. Robberies were 12.7 and larcenies 7.4 percent higher in 1949, according to 1,558 rural police agencies serving 32,813,514 people."

"The sobering fact about such records is the alarming number of young people involved," Lindstrom continues.

"Of total arrests, 247,971, or 31.2 percent, were under 30 years."

"For rural areas the number was well over 87,000 or three times the number of 4-H boys in Illinois. In both rural and urban areas the largest number of arrests were made for youth 21 years old."

What does the sociologist suggest?

"Trouble in your community comes when youth, looking for excitement, go in for souped-up jalopies, hot-rod racing, drinking, gambling, pickups and fighting."

"Few crimes are recorded from homes and neighborhoods in which young people take part in church, 4-H, Future Farmer, Future Homemaker, Scout or other rural youth groups. Minds occupied with learning and bodies with activity, have little place for crime."

Senator Taft Said Cinch To Remain GOP Chieftain

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—Senate Republicans will keep their winning leadership team led by Sen. Taft, (R. Ohio), when the 82nd Congress organizes in January.

A GOP spokesman said today there is no prospect of challenge to the present party leadership when the new Senate of 49 Democrats and 47 Republicans meets Jan. 3.

Taft is certain to be retained as GOP policy chairman, with Sen. Millikin, (R. Colo.), as conference chairman and Sen. Wherry, (R. Neb.), as minority floor leader.

The reelection victories scored by Taft and Millikin, both conservatives, eliminate any likelihood of even token opposition.

So-called progressive Republican senators last January mustered a dozen votes in conference when they put up their own candidate, Sen. Lodge, (R. Mass.), for floor leader.

4 Persons Hurt In Pair Of Auto Accidents

Four persons suffered injuries on Pickaway County highways last weekend as the result of two auto accidents.

State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells, who investigated both mishaps, said the first smashup occurred at 10:30 p. m. Saturday on Route 56 below Laurelville.

The patrolman said an auto driven by Paul Karshner, 19, of Laurelville Route 2, was thrown out of control when a tire blew.

The Karshner auto whipped about on the highway and overturned.

Karshner was unhurt in the accident, Wells said, but two passengers, Eugene Neal, 16, of Adelphi and Lloyd Poling, 17, of Laurelville Route 2 both suffered head lacerations.

BOTH NEAL and Poling were rushed into Berger hospital, (Continued on Page Two)

The "Young Turks" at first considered challenging the Taft leadership directly by running Lodge for policy chairman, then made the floor leadership the target for their test of strength. Wherry was elected unanimously after they lost.

THE TIDE OF Republican victories in Senate contests which gave the minority a net gain of five seats is expected to bring party factions into closer harmony.

The same is expected on the Democratic side, where control of the Senate now hangs on a one-vote majority.

Jockeying already has begun on the necessary selection in January of a new Democratic floor leader to take over when Majority Leader Lucas, (D. Ill.), steps out of the Senate. Lucas lost to Former Rep. Dirksen while Taft was winning his 430,000-vote plurality in Ohio.

Sen. Russell, (D. Ga.), is the most likely choice at present for Democratic leader.

Russell is backed by Sen. O'Mahoney, (D. Wyo.), who also has been mentioned as a prominent candidate for the post. O'Mahoney said he was "not interested" in the leadership and that Russell was "eminently qualified."

Russell is said not to want the job, but is expected to withhold his final "no" until a choice satisfactory to Dixie Democrats is made.

State's Taxation Chief To Resign

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13—State Tax Commissioner C. Emory Glander announced today that he will retire from public office when his term expires Feb. 12.

Glander, first appointed by Republican Gov. John W. Bricker in 1945 to fill the unexpired term of William S. Ewert, said his "family responsibilities" make it necessary to leave the $9,000-a-year job and enter law practice in Columbus.

RED CHINA DELEGATION AWAITED

UN Observer Is Being Sent To Study Korea War Status

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 13—A representative of the United Nations was enroute by air today to the Korean fighting front in an indicated effort to negotiate directly with the Chinese Communists for a settlement of frontier issues.

James Plimsoll, Australian minister on the newly-created UN Commission for the Unification and Rehabilitation of Korea, said prior to his take-off from New York last night that the use of military force by Communist China to protect its frontier interests is "wholly unwarranted and unnecessary."

Lake Success observers interpreted this as a new appeal to the Chinese Communist government to withdraw its troops from North Korea and entrust its electric power and industrial interests on the frontier to the UN.

Plimsoll said the seven-nation commission will assemble in Tokyo for an organization meeting and shortly thereafter will head for the fighting zone.

He will be followed by plane from New York Wednesday by Ambassador Manuel Trucco of Chile and Ambassador Mian Zaid-Din of Pakistan.

MEANWHILE, the United States insisted that Communist China undergo questioning before the UN Security Council this week on the entrance of 60,000 of its troops into the Korean fighting.

Peiping rejected Saturday an invitation of the council to discuss Chinese intervention in Korea. Despite this, the U. S. will press for an explanation of Gen. MacArthur's charges that Chinese Communist troops have crossed the frontier from Manchuria and engaged UN forces in Korea.

Chiang Says 'Reds' Revolt

Chinese 'Forced' Into Korean War

TAIPEH, Formosa, Nov. 13—The entry of Chinese Communist troops into battle against American and other United Nations forces in Korea is not a voluntary action of the Chinese people on the mainland of China, but must be definitely recognized as an action taken under the direction of international Communism," Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, leader of Nationalist China, declared today. He added:

"Though the leaders of the Chinese Communist Party are willing tools of the Kremlin, the rank-and-file of Chinese Communist troops have been sent into Korea either through deliberate misrepresentation or brute coercion."

"There is an active revolt among Chinese Communist troops not only near the front in Manchuria but also in Hupeh, Szechwan, Yunnan and Fukien provinces where the troops have refused to entrain for the front in Korea, resulting in bloodshed and loss of many lives."

"The Chinese people cannot and will not forget the mutually beneficial effects accruing from a century of cordial Sino-American friendship and comradeship born during the four years of shoulder-to-shoulder fighting in the last war."

"DESPITE THE vicious Communist propaganda, this appreciation continues. For the moment, the people on the Chinese mainland simply lack the means to express their free will."

"My government is doing its utmost in penetrating the curtain to dissuade the people on the mainland from participating in any hostile action against the United Nations forces, and, if they are in Korea, to persuade them to surrender their arms."

"Time was when my government stood alone in urging vigilance (Continued on Page Two)

Lima Schedules All-Out Alert

LIMA, Nov. 13—Some 500 military and civil defense observers will meet here Sunday to witness what is thought to be the nation's first countywide civil defense alert.

An estimated 7,500 civil defense volunteers will try to counteract simulated "enemy" bombing raids by Ohio National Guard planes from Columbus, and ward off bogus acts of sabotage by fake "enemy agents."

All cars entering Allen County will be stopped to prevent infiltration by the pseudo enemy and to direct civil defense workers quickly to their tasks.

A nine-member team coming by air from Peiping to New York will be asked by American Delegate Warren Austin to make an explanation.

Austin and other Western members of the council plan to question the Communist delegation despite Communist Foreign Minister Chou En-lai's view, which specifically rejects consultations on MacArthur's report, but insists on an all inclusive canvassing of the Korean-Formosan situation.

On this basis, it is believed possible to quiz the Peiping delegation within the framework of the entire Far Eastern situation.

The questioning will be taken up by sharp-tongued diplomats like Sir Gladwyn Jebb of Britain and Jean Chauvel of France. Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik will have the role of chief defense attorney for the representatives of Communist Leader Mao Tse-tung.

The scheduled discussion of Communist China's charges that the U. S. committed aggression in ordering its Seventh Fleet to safeguard the Nationalist island stronghold of Formosa against invasion—charges which Russia supports—will be deferred until the Security Council has reached a decision on the Korean issue.

The reverse side of the Formosa problem will be aired in the next day or two, however, when the assembly's 60-nation political committee takes up the American proposal that UN appoint an observation group for investigating the Formosa situation on the spot.

'Ambassador' Betty Riddle Nearing Home

Pickaway County's "grass-roots diplomat" to Denmark was scheduled to arrive in New York, Monday, enroute to her home.

Betty Jean Riddle of Orient is among 42 United States representatives in the International Farm Youth Exchange who spent the Summer in foreign countries.

Also from Ohio was Richard Taylor of Chagrin Falls who went to Greece.

They will attend a "Welcome Home" breakfast at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel at 8 a. m. Tuesday followed by an informal discussion and should be ready to leave for home by noon.

Upon their return to Ohio, Miss Riddle, and Taylor will be available to relate their experiences before youth, farm and civic groups throughout the state.

Voluntary donations gathered by University 4-H Club, University Farm Bureau, and University Grange financed the trips. Miss Riddle is a rural sociology sophomore and Taylor is a junior in agricultural education. They plan to resume studies in January.

Objectives of the IFYE project are to contribute to world peace by promoting international understanding among farm youth and to inform farm youth all over the world through the exchange of cultural and citizenship experiences.

WOMAN DOCTOR IS HELD

Parents Demand Death Penalty For Kidnaper

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 13—A prominent woman physician was charged today with kidnapping a 9-year-old girl whose parents demanded the abductor be given "the maximum penalty"—which is death.

Dr. Nancy Duval Campbell, 53, a respected obstetrician of Santa Fe, was arrested Saturday night when she tried to pick up $20,000 in ransom money for the child, Linda Stamm, daughter of a Santa Fe realtor.

The kidnapping warrant was signed by Judge David Carmody and bond was set at $25,000.

The child apparently was drugged but otherwise unharmed when she was found in an abandoned hut, 10 miles south-east of Santa Fe.

Percy D. Wiley, of the FBI office in Albuquerque, N. M., said Dr. Campbell explained that the motive for the kidnapping was to get money to build a new home and for her "many household expenses."

Wiley added that despite the woman physician's apparently successful practice she had only $1,000 in the bank. She offered no explanation of her lack of funds.

THE CHILD'S parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Stamm, said they would urge authorities to demand the "maximum penalty" for Dr. Campbell.

It was the manner in which the respected woman doctor attempted to collect the ransom that led to her capture by FBI and city and state police officers at the entrance to the suburban Community of New Homes being developed by Stamm.

Dr. Campbell, who is unmarried, but has an adopted son, Rufus, 4, was seized as she picked up the ransom-envelop left in front of the Stamm home.

She admitted to FBI agents that she had been planning a kidnapping for some time.

Unused ransom notes found in her car indicated she planned to kidnap any child, not particularly Linda Stamm at the time.

One of the ransom notes was addressed to Mrs. Eric P. Hausner, wife of a Santa Fe doctor. Another was addressed to John Dendahl, wealthy Santa Fe dry goods merchant.

Wiley quoted Dr. Campbell as saying she planned to kidnap the Hausner or Dendahl children if the Stamm child was not at home.

Wiley said that Dr. Campbell admitted she dressed in man's clothing and handed the Stamm ransom note to Linda who gave it to a maid. The child told the maid the "man" wanted her to leave with him.

The maid protested but assumed the "man" was a neighbor or friend of the family and did not immediately report the incident.

Ringgold Area Center Of New Oil-Gas Project

A natural gas and oil development program may begin in the near future near Ringgold.

Landowners in that area report that several hundred acres of their farmlands have been leased by two companies for the purpose of drilling for oil and gas.

The landowners said one company was the City of Lancaster Gas Co., which has verified its interest in the community, and a Pickaway County firm, as yet unidentified.

According to reports, the companies are to rig well-drilling equipment on the lands to begin test drilling within the next 30 days. The land is believed to be optioned on one-year leases.

The landowners report that geologists have made preliminary surveys of the area and "rather believe there is gas here."

The owners estimated nearly a dozen farms are tied in with the program.

Tibet Capital Falls To Reds

NEW DELHI, Nov. 13—Reports from Northern India said today that Lhasa, capital of invaded Tibet, has fallen to Chinese Communist troops.

Air Units Smash At Red Advance

Marines Aiming At Reservoir

SEOUL, Nov. 14—(Tuesday)—American forces scored gains of two and a half to three miles in both Northwest and Northeast Korea Monday, but Red attacks in the center forced Rok (Republic of Korea) troops back two and a half miles.

As fighting flared along the now-continuous transpeninsular front, U. S. planes struck at a 20-mile-long column of Communist reinforcements moving down from Manchuria's border toward the central sector.

B-29 Superforts knocked out the last of the two Antung-Sinuiju bridges that comprised the most important Yalu river link between Red China's Manchuria and Korea.

On the west side of the front, U. S. 24th Infantry Division renewed the United Nations drive beyond the Chongchon river bridgehead Monday morning.

By 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, the Americans had gained two and a half miles in the area west of Pakchon.

The 24th's spearheads reached points about a mile and a half northwest of Pakchon and thus outflanked that enemy-held hub toward which British Commonwealth troops had moved from the southeast.

THE 24TH PUSHED north against no resistance and some of the division's units did not even fire a shot during the day.

International News Service War Correspondent Bernard Kaplan reported in a Monday midnight front dispatch that Red troops appeared to have withdrawn from the entire area of the 24th's advance.

To the east of the 24th's sector, the U. S. First Cavalry Division drove north from the Kunuri segment of the Chongchon bridgehead for gains of one and a half to two miles Monday. The First Cavalry met strong resistance.

On the east side of North Korea, the U. S. First Marine Division's Seventh Regiment resumed its drive in sub-freezing temperatures across a snow-covered plateau toward the huge Changjin (Chosin) reservoir.

INS War Correspondent Irwin Tress reported at 9:25 Monday night that the Leathernecks pushed three miles north from captured Kotari to within five miles of the reservoir's southern rim.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters spokesman said UN patrols have been reported to have reached the reservoir.

Federal Aid Cut To Hurt Ohio

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13—State Health Director John D. Porterfield announced today the third cut within a month in federal aid funds for Ohio public health work.

Due to a recent slash in funds by the U. S. Bureau of the Budget the nutrition field survey service has been discontinued.

Dr. Porterfield said the cut will force the withdrawal of a field survey team which has been studying nutrition in Athens County and the Columbus state school as well as the effect of school lunch programs.

Staying Alive And Clean Is GI's Biggest War Problem

IN KOREA, Nov. 13—This is Bobby Davis' 131st day in the line in Korea but there is no celebration about it.

In the foxhole where Bobby Davis lives there is no room for a celebration.

Bobby Davis is a rifleman, an unadorned private first class, and if you want to know about the war, then you must know about Bobby Davis.

He has known both the sense of helplessness and the thrill of being a conqueror of Korea. Mostly he has plugged along toting somewhere to have a hot bathe. And most important to Bobby Davis, who is 19 and no coward, is the fact he has never been scratched in battle.

It gives Davis a strong sense of accomplishment, never having been wounded. There were 160 men in his rifle company when it docked at Pusan July 3 with other units of the 24th Division. There are 30 of them left now. Only 14 of these never have been hospitalized.

Bobby Davis is proud to have been that lucky so far. He has never thought of himself as a particularly good soldier, which he is.

This boy, two years out of Hazard, Ky., high school, is not talkative but he is articulate enough when he has something to say. What has passed before his eyes in this war will always be part of him.

No soldier ever forgets. But he will never be changed by it because Bobby Davis is one of the fortunate ones who is too strong to be made different by war.

Bobby Davis who does not yet shave, remembers that when the 24th landed in Korea "everybody thought it was more or less a play job."

"We figured it would last three or four weeks and everybody was kind of looking forward to it. I was too."

Bobby Davis was not looking forward to it after the morning of July 10 when he first learned about the North Koreans and tanks and ambushes.

That was at Chochiwon where "they ran tanks right into our positions—right into our foxholes—and ran them behind us at the same time. The battalion lost most of its men."

What remained of Bobby Davis' company and a second company—120 men altogether—were told one night they would be the rear guard covering the retreat of the 19th and 34th regiments at Taejon.

The two shattered companies carried out their assignment and then withdrew.

When Bobby Davis talks now about the days of constant retreat and sorrow his voice seems to carry an unreal quality about it and often it trails off into silence as though he has become lost in memories almost to be cherished because he can hope they are never to be repeated.

Later there were holding actions around the Pusan perimeter where the defense ordered by the generals had been held by a sometimes nearly invisible line of men who, like Bobby Davis, often did not know what the fight in Korea is all about.

On the day the 24th Division broke out of the tight little perimeter and across the Nakdong river Bobby Davis was made a squad leader.

His squad had reached Nam-sido, 14 miles from the Manchurian border on Nov. 2 when the troops were ordered back because of the Chinese Communist threat to their rear.

Bobby Davis said he once thought of leaving the Army as soon as his enlistment ended, but now he does not know about that.

Already in two years time and in five months of war, Bobby Davis perhaps has been thinking like a soldier too long ever to be comfortable as a civilian.

His father, who runs a business in Hazard, was against his joining the Army in the first place.

Bobby Davis said: "Now he and Mom write me letters about how the news is good and maybe the war will be over soon. I don't think the people there ever knew how bad it really got to be."

Then you realize that this blue eyed, blond and beardless boy is a bitter man.

But his bitterness is tempered with a sense of humor. "You know the two toughest things about this war, don't you?" He asked. "Staying alive and staying clean."

Air Units Smash At Red Advance

erov—one of Korea's prime sources of electric power—but that none remained there.

The front dispatch from Tress said the Marines encountered only light resistance from Red units which left hurriedly when the Leathernecks appeared.

Col. Homer Litzenberg, commander of the Marines' Seventh Regiment, expressed the belief the enemy in the sector consists of Chinese Red troops who were cut off when the Leathernecks made their swift advance to Kotori last week.

THE COLONEL said he believes enemy units his men now are meeting have lost communications with the main body of Chinese troops who, he added, have probably withdrawn from the Changjin reservoir area.

But in the area just east of the 35-mile Chongchon arc, powerful Communist forces pressed what MacArthur described as "a determined counter-attack" which hurled back South Korean troops two and a half miles.

Supporting U. S. planes killed about 1,000 of the attacking enemy troops Sunday.

Still farther east, troops of the recently-landed U. S. Third Infantry Division and of the U. S. Eighth Army's Rok (Republic of Korea) Second Corps consolidated a junction effected Sunday.

Thus, the Eighth Army and the U. S. 10th Corps joined forces for the first time to establish a solid line across the peninsula's 110-mile-long "waist."

Employee Held For Use Of Company Checks

HAMILTON, Nov. 13—An employee who is accused of helping himself to two of his employer's checks was returned here from Greensburg, Ky., today and booked on charges of forgery.

The suspect, registered as Louis Bishop, 24, formerly worked for the Wittman Tent and Awning Co.

Bishop told police he found two blank checks in the door pocket on the company's truck and filled them out and cashed them at local business establishments.

John A. Bippus, Police Chief, said Bishop obtained $14 in cash after presenting one at the Hamilton Outlet Store in payment for a purchase and $10 at the F. and E. Motors. The $10 check was given as part payment on an automobile.

Both checks were cashed Oct. 24.

Albert Bean, 37, of London, picked up here when allegedly attempting to pass a check at the Wilmur's store, will be turned over to authorities at Wilmington, where he is wanted on a charge of forgery.

First Methodist Church Calling Special Parley

A business meeting of vital importance to members of Circleville First Methodist church is scheduled for Tuesday evening.

The Rev. Robert Weaver, pastor of the local church, said that the meeting, which will start at 7:30 p. m., will be open to all members of the congregation.

He urged a good attendance. The minister added that officially the meeting will be known as a parley of the church's official board and quarterly conference session.

Dr. Wilson of Lancaster, superintendent of this Methodist district, will be present at the meeting.

He is scheduled to complete organization of the boards of the church. Rev. Mr. Weaver reported that a discussion will center on a policy regarding rotation of board members and years they will serve.

Workers Given Birthday Gift

MIDDLETOWN, Nov. 13—Employees of Gardner Board and Carton Co. plants in Middletown and Lockland have a new slant on birthday gifts.

The firm's 2,000 employees each received an extra $50 in their pay envelopes last week—not because it was their birthday but it was the company's 50th anniversary.

The birthday gift also went to company pensioners and to those on leave of absence for military service.

Heading the cast for the presentation were John Little and Charles Messick, aided by Edith Cummings, Peggy Essick, Catherine Williams, Betty Badger, Shirley Axe, Marjorie Miller, Barbara Ward, Lillian Franks, Robert Swayer, Kent Zwyer, Nancy Hedges, David Deal, Mona Lee Maddox and Christina Heeter.

Special music for the play was presented by Edith Cummings and Mona Maddox. The play was directed by Mrs. A. B. Albertson, sound effects were produced by Fern Wheeler, Sharon Zwyer was ticket chairman, Mary McCallister and Norma Scarberry were ushers and Paul Hickman was stage manager.

South Bloomfield Mayor Witness In Traffic Case

Mayor Walter Heise of South Bloomfield played a new role here last weekend.

The mayor, accustomed to hearing evidence in traffic cases, for once was the complaining witness.

Heise said he trailed Alvin Gold of Washington D. C. down Route 23 and that the man crossed the yellow no-passing line at least three times and operated his auto recklessly.

Gold pleaded guilty before Magistrate Oscar Root after he had been arrested by Deputy Walter Richards and was fined $25 and costs for reckless operation and $25 and costs for crossing the yellow lines.

Home-Hospital Moving To New Location

Circleville Home and Hospital was moving into its new location at 158 East Mound street Monday.

Mrs. James Moffitt, assistant manager of the home, said that about 32 patients will be involved in the moving.

"We should be able to handle about 15 new patients after we move into our new home," Mrs. Moffitt said.

The move from South Scioto street is expected to be completed by Tuesday, although painters and carpenters are still busy readying the new home.

2 Youths Named As Winners Of 'Peace' Contests

Beverly Reid and James Bartholomew, both of Circleville high school, are to represent the city during the district "Prince Of Peace" declamation contest.

Miss Reid earned the right to participate in the contest Sunday in First Methodist church while Bartholomew was selected during a Trinity Lutheran church Brotherhood meeting last week.

Alternates for the pair are John Lampton and Milton Spangler, who ranked second in the contests.

Both first place winners received bronze medal awards for their efforts and are expected to compete in a three-county contest about Dec. 10.

Winner of the district test will advance into the state contest, where first place winner will receive a four-year college scholarship and $400. Second in the state test will receive a two-year scholarship and $200, while third place will receive a one-year scholarship and $100.

Circleville Sells Its 'Boneyard' For Only $350

Circleville sold its "boneyard" Monday for $350.

Service Director John Neuding said the property was sold to Forrest Wood of East Ohio street, who was the highest bidder on the three and three-fourths acre tract located on Island Road near Red Bridge.

The city acquired the property about 75 years ago to use as a "boneyard" to bury dead animals.

This, according to Clerk of City Council Fred Nicholas, was in the days before rendering firms wanted the animals.

Before the new county dog pound was built near Pickaway County Home, the tract was used for the city dog pound. Service Director Neuding was authorized to sell the land by city council. The property was sold by sealed bids.

Neuding said low bid on the tract was for $101.

Crooksville Man Bound To Grand Jury In Theft

Pearl Roth, 51, of Crooksville, was held for Pickaway County grand jury action last weekend in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root for allegedly stealing wheat from a government granary in Jackson Township.

Roth is accused of stealing 219 bushels of wheat valued at more than $400 from the granaries located at Route 56 and the Darbyville Pike, west of Circleville.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff accused the man of backing his truck to one of the bins, ripping a hole in the corrugated steel and filling the truck from the flow from the hole.

Radcliff added that Roth confessed to selling the grain later in Huntington, W. Va., for $2.07 per bushel. The man was arrested by Sheriff E. M. Midkiff after he had received a card from the local department alerting him for the sale.

where they were given emergency treatment and released.

At 9:30 p. m. Sunday on Route 23 about seven miles north of Circleville two persons were hurt when two autos crashed nearly head-on.

Wells said an auto operated South on the highway by Virgil Penwell, 31, of Columbus, attempted to pass a truck.

The patrolman said the Penwell auto was nearly around the truck when the driver spotted an approaching auto, operated by Oscar McFann, 22, also of Columbus.

"Penwell tried to make the left-hand ditch to avoid a head-on collision," said Wells, "but he didn't quite make it."

The Penwell auto was struck by the McFann car and turned over.

Mrs. Stella Penwell, 28, wife of the driver, suffered bruises in the crash while Richard Penwell, 5, their son, suffered an eye laceration.

Penwell is to appear in Circleville mayor's court late Monday to answer an accusation of passing without an assured clear distance.

In View Of The News

By J. C. Oestreicher
INS Foreign Director

Plans reported made by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin for a special visit to Western Germany has raised the likelihood that a major change in the status of the Western Reich is imminent.

No official announcement of the trip has yet been made, but the British press is talking about it. Emphasis is being placed upon the state of Bevin's health, coupled with the possibility of an early new election in Great Britain.

The implication is that Bevin desires to liquidate the German problem before he retires from office and that the trip will be something of a gesture to underscore a detailed program already believed drawn up for settlement.

Initially, the Western Powers are going to end the state of war with Germany that has existed since Sept. 3, 1939.

The official attitude will be that France and England declared war upon the Hitler regime for its rash invasion of Poland, compelling both those nations to honor solemn treaty obligations.

Then will come the drafting of a peace treaty, but how this is to be done is an unanswered question and will remain so while Germany remains divided between East and West.

FULL DIPLOMATIC recognition and easing of many controls that are still rigorously enforced will come with the passage of time.

The Western Nations already are believed to have set a definite date for ending the state of war. Belgium has officially signified her willingness to do so, and some months ago there was general belief that Great Britain and France had reached full agreement on the subject.

Soviet Russian reaction to these measures will be interesting to watch and important in its significance to the world.

There have been some definite signs that the Russians are working out a scheme to make of Eastern Germany a separate and independent nation within the Soviet sphere.

In other words, that part of the country will become a satellite of the Kremlin and once again the Allies may be placed in an awkward position.

They are on record before the United Nations and elsewhere as vigorously opposing any further Communist expansion, either militarily, by infiltration or under the guise of palpably false and fabricated "civil war."

But if, by the same token, the Western Powers are going to take positive new measures regarding Germany and Soviet "reprisals" result, the position will be an uneasy one, to say the least, and it is impossible to predict what events will follow in their train.

Some of them, of course, are bound to be beneficial to the defense of Western Europe.

THE ALLIES have not yet agreed upon a definite plan for German mobilization and rearmament. It has been impossible to establish a workable whole out of the diverse suggestions which have been offered.

Justified or not, there is a growing resentment in present-day Germany over an Allied decision which leaves the German people wondering what they are to be tomorrow and whether they ever again are to be subjects of a sovereign nation.

Except through their political leaders, they are powerless to complain, but there is no doubt that the average German would serve only grudgingly under a foreign commander while mothers and fathers might start a passive resistance movement against such conscription that could wreck the country's precarious economy.

In all probability, Bevin hopes that his visit will set the seal on a restored Anglo-German friendship which in turn should increase the measure of German cooperation.

Should the state of war be ended soon afterward, cooperation might be assured and the still vast resources of Germany harnessed effectively to the cause of peace and resistance to Communism.

Bevin then could resign with the words "mission accomplished." But just how permanent the solution might be is obviously impossible to forecast.

Local Driver Bound To Grand Jury By Court

Charles Cullums, 43, of 217 East High street has been bound over to Pickaway County grand jury on $500 bond in the court of Mayor Thurman I. Miller.

He was accused on an affidavit signed by Police Officer S. T.

Ross of driving on South Washington street while intoxicated.

Ross said Cullums, driving a truck, was involved in an accident with a car operated by Margaret Greeno of 820 Clinton street.

The accident took place at the intersection of Washington and Franklin streets when the Greeno car halted for a stop sign and Cullums' truck struck it from the rear, Ross said. Damage was minor, he added.

HELPING RED CHINA
WAR IN the Orient began in 1931, when Japan seized Manchuria. Thereafter, for a decade, the United States continued to ship raw materials of potential war use, including scrap iron and gasoline, to Japan, in spite of China's vigorous protests. These contributions to Japan's armament were in the end, turned against the United States. From that experience, and in the light of current developments in Korea, shipments of war-essential materials to the Soviet Union and its satellites must be regarded as wickedly dangerous. Export of some, but not all, of such materials has been prohibited.

This prohibition, in the form of embargoes, requirement of export licenses, etc., is not effective. In the Orient red China has replaced prewar Japan as the recipient of potential war materials from the United States.

Two New York exporters revealed, at a Washington hearing, that their concerns had sold 4,000,000 pounds of Japanese copper to red China within the last 12 months. The copper shipments were rerouted around the world through a loophole in United States trade regulations.

There have been other instances, such as shipments of boilers from German manufacturers to red China, some of which were routed through the United States. The Department of Commerce seems to have been unaware that technical loopholes existed. Such carelessness, in the face of the sacrifices being demanded for American rearmament, ought to be cause for dismissal.

Throughout the fighting in Korea the North Koreans received from Manchuria men trained in the Chinese communist armies. Now U. S. forces are battling entire Chinese divisions. Yet, through official carelessness red China has been getting potential war materials from the United States. Will Washington never learn the facts of modern international life?

Inside WASHINGTON

MARCH OF EVENTS

Expect Truman to Request $23 Billion Budget Boost | Entire Increase earmarked for Arms of U. S., Allies

WASHINGTON—President Truman is expected to submit to Congress in January a government budget of about $65 billion an increase of $23 billions above the present budget. The entire increase will be in arms to equip the expanded United States forces, Atlantic Pact nations, the Philippines, Turkey, Greece and other American allies.

This means even higher taxes, of course, as the administration repeatedly has warned. The President is insisting that the rearmament program should be financed on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Mr. Truman plans to ask Congress to revise the tax program substantially. He will request that the tax burden be shifted more heavily to the middle and upper income brackets and that higher estate and gift taxes be levied. An excess profits tax also is a certainty.

CLAIMING THE CREDIT—Backers of the Hoover Commission recommendations on government reorganization are claiming at least partial credit for the successes in Korea and for the comparatively smooth acceleration of the defense program.

They say that "two great lessons" have emerged from the last few (fateful) months. These are:

1—Military unification has proved itself a "vital factor for national survival" in its Korean trial by fire.
2—For the first time in modern history, the United States met a war crisis within the framework of existing government agencies and without "an alphabet soup" of temporary emergency agencies.

The Citizens Committee for Reorganization of the Executive Branch of the Government says that these developments "can be traced

These Days

Now that Soviet China is making war on us, it might be profitable to consider some of the extraordinarily curious notions that have, over the years, befuddled our relations with the countries of East Asia, where our boys are fighting and dying.

One of the most catastrophic concepts, propounded by State Department experts, has been the need for "reform." This idea is an emanation of the World War II policy that there are good dictators and bad dictators, good countries and bad countries, and that somehow we must make the bad ones over in our image. That concept was given the all-embracing term, Democracy.

By "reform," we had come to mean that each land, no matter what its traditions, must hold an election resembling perhaps the fracas in New York City this year, and must install a bookkeeping system based on IBM machines. Many countries in the world have no predisposition for such reforms and grow antagonistic to the United States when the subject is stressed. The recent outburst in the Philippines was characteristic of the East Asian attitude toward "reform."

If our objective is to use those countries as bases for the defense of our land, to contain our enemy and to lessen his effectiveness, then we have to take what we get there and do the best with the material available. That, it seems to me, is common sense.

Professor John K. Fairbank of Harvard, who is one of the Institute of Pacific Relations experts on Asia, has this to say:

"My own conclusion is that the effort to ally ourselves with 'nationalism' in Asia and to use it as a bulwark against Communism is a will-o'-the-wisp unless we combine 'nationalism' with 'reform' in a very specific and sophisticated manner. In the final analysis, 'reform' is the more fundamental force. The effort to comprehend the nature of the revolutionary process in Asia is the most pressing necessity in our current mobilization."

This paragraph begs the question of our present task, which is to prevent Soviet Russia from creating so preponderant a power that resistance to her will become impossible. Already, Russia holds the initiative in war by geographical advantage and by superior numbers, speedily mobilized. Our advantage is manufacturing facilities which Russia could, in time, equal. Her problem is time; our problem is to find allies for increased manpower and closer bases.

If we make it too difficult for our allies by preconceptions as to their purity of heart, we shall have no allies in the end. Once Russia equals our productivity, our advantage is gone and our defensive capacity will be imperiled.

This is our problem and we need to face it realistically. China has been in a state of reform since Confucius; it has practically been at war since then. In the last 100 years, many reform movements appeared in China: the Taiping rebellion; the Boxer rebellion; the Tungmenhui; the Kuomintang; the reform movement of Kang Yu-wei and Liang Chi-chao—and many movements. All countries nearly always require reform.

Head Cold? It May Be An Allergy

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
BY this time most people know that many so-called colds have an allergic basis. That is, they are due to oversensitivity either to some food or to dusts and pollens. We are not, however, so familiar with the newer idea that colds of this type and those due to infection in the nose or nasal sinuses have their underlying cause in emotional upsets. Many people suffer from continual nasal discharge. These attacks may be brought on by a wide variety of trigger factors, such as drafts, dust, cold, dampness, excitement, or emotional stress, but all of these are thought to get their bad effects in the same way—by stimulation of the glands of internal secretion, particularly the adrenal glands which are located over the kidneys. These glands form a substance known as adrenaline. When adrenaline gets into the blood in increased amounts, there is a contraction of the blood vessels, a circumstance which is believed responsible for nasal congestion. Stimulation of the involuntary nervous system is thought to be the root cause of allergic colds or nasal discharge.

directly to those portions of the Hoover Commission's report which found early adoption" by Congress.

FANFARE LIMITED—The Senate preparedness subcommittee is putting the needle into the defense program without the customary congressional fanfare of public hearings.

The group, headed by Senator Lyndon Johnson (D), Texas, has had a few public sessions and may have others, but regards the open hearings as too costly in time.

Johnson's committee brought out a stinging initial report lambasting the situation on rubber without having gone through all the usual public fanfare.

The committee is now launching a new inquiry of the aluminum production situation—which may top all others in importance. But even this investigation may be conducted behind closed doors without lengthy public testimony.

MEDICAL AID—A House armed services subcommittee will make a fight after the November elections for a clear-cut wording of the law giving medical assistance to dependents of military personnel.

The Navy at present is the only one of the armed services authorized under specific legislation to care for dependents. The service has been granted in the past to the Army and Air Force, but there's no authorization now for those branches.

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers (D), South Carolina, chairman of the subcommittee, has won the support of Armed Services Committee Chairman Carl Vinson (D), Georgia, and other committee members for revision of the present law so that there can be no doubt of dependents of men in all branches getting medical aid.

FARM INCOME UP—Agriculture department officials expect farm income to be substantially higher next year than the anticipated return to farmers for 1950.

This poses an important economic question: Will farm income go up fast enough to keep pace with rising operating costs?

For example, predictions are that farm machinery prices will be at new high levels. Also, there may be a rise in wages to be paid to farm workers. Agriculture department officials haven't admitted it, but they're frantically looking around for some way to prevent a modern recurrence of the old fable that begins: "For want of a nail, a shoe was lost; for want of a shoe, a horse was lost, etc."

LOOK OUT for LIZA

By FAITH BALDWIN

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE
"DID HE say he would go abroad again?" she asked. "He's never mentioned it to me."
"He would not wish to alarm you before the event. Of course, you could remain here. But candidly—and I speak as a woman of the world—it would not be wise, surely?"
"I wouldn't get married," said Patty, "if my husband spent his time across a couple of oceans." She added, "But the book could be a success."
"Have you read it?"
"He won't let anyone read it."
"Not even you, his dear friend and a writer?"
Patty looked as if she had been sharply pinched. She said, "Don't give me away, Mrs. Lennox. I'm not a writer. When I met Mike I just said I was interested in writing. You know how it is, you find out what a man's steamed up about and you steam up too, if you're smart." She was so intent that she didn't see Liza's smile, which began and ended in her eyes. Nor could Patty read Liza's mind, which thought, Mike meets Patty and she is steamed up over writing?
But Patty was looking to her for agreement. And Liza agreed with gestures, "Alors," she said, "that follows."
"Anyway," said Patty, "I do read a lot; at night, when I don't have a date, or don't have to wash my hair and all that. Not trash. I'm crazy about historical novels. Really good books. And books which tell you how to improve yourself."
Liza felt a pang of compunction, thinking, She's too good for Michael anyway. Therefore, I proceed. She'd make a fine wife for the right man.
But she couldn't find a husband for Patty until she had extricated Michael. Meantime Patty continued her explanation.
"Somehow Mike thought I was trying to write. One thing led to another."
"It often does."
"And I began to go downstairs and ask him about plots. He told me a lot. He'd get so excited, talking, he'd forget, sort of, about me. About my writing, that is. When he remembered, I'd tell him I hadn't done anything good enough to show him."
"We are poor creatures, we women," said Liza mournfully. "We do not wish to deceive, but men compel us." She shook her head, and added, "There is one solution. If the book should not be a success, and you persuaded Michael to remain here and take a position, or begin another book, you could go on working. You model, do you not? That must be marvelous."
"It's boring," said Patty. "When I think of the weeks I walked around with a book on my head ... just to wear bathing suits in winter and fur coats in summer and sit under terrible light and be moved around like a store-window dummy! Anyway I didn't plan to work after I married. I am sick and tired of it right now."
"Naturally," said Liza blandly. "You are a homemaker, and would prefer to put around your own kitchen, have your own sweet little house, perhaps in the country, with an acre of land, a good, kind cow and the chickens?"
"Well, I never thought of that, exactly," said Patty. "I mean I wouldn't want to be stuck in a kitchen forever. You're only young once ... She drew a deep breath. "You might know about this," she suggested. "Mike doesn't talk about himself, that is, about important things, like family and money and all that—but he did inherit some money. That's how he could take the time to write his book."
"I know about it. My husband consulted with me before he left Michael the legacy."
Patty said, "I'm sorry, I didn't mean to, well, pry. That is," she added, "not exactly."
I like her, thought Liza, she's quite an honest creature. In her way.
"It is not much," said Liza differently, "a small sum, a token of affection."
"Oh," said Patty. "Well, I didn't know."
However, thought Liza, this is not a mercenary girl. And she is attracted to Michael. But not too deeply. It will not hurt, much. She would like comforts, gaiety, good clothes and furs, trips to Bermuda, a well-trained maid, a pair of diamond bracelets. Who can blame her? Not I, who had none of these things before I met George. Patty has not had them either.
She said, "George—my husband—often talked with me of Michael. He told me of Michael's parents, the beautiful, unhappy mother," Liza went on, wondering if she, too, should take to the typewriter, as George's description of the late Mrs. Lennox had been unembroidered. Now Liza chose other colors, and threaded a sharper needle. "Alas, his father—oh, that one, Copyright, 1950, by Faith Baldwin Cuthrell. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

FOLKS OF FAME—GUESS THE NAME
1—This noted singer and actor was born in Waco, Tex., Dec. 29, 1902. He was a student at Central Texas college in Waco, and studied voice in Rome and Paris. He was soloist with the Boston symphony orchestra in 1926. He created the leading stage roles in Deep River, Show Boat, The Voodoo King. In grand opera he appeared as Amonastro in Aida; as Tomio in Pagliacci, as Mephisto in Faust, Boris in Boris Godunov, and in stage plays, Brutus Jones in Emperor Jones. He made many appearances in recitals in the United States and Europe. He was also the composer of African Suite for violin and orchestra, and many songs—Does Ah Love You? Grandmother's Melodies, Beside a New-Made Grave, The Farewell, etc. He died in 1945. What was his name?
2—He was an Italian artist, metal worker and sculptor, born in Florence on Nov. 1, 1500. At 15 he was apprenticed to a goldsmith. Implicated in a brawl in Florence, he was banished to Sienna, and some of his work dates from this period—a silver casket, some silver candlesticks for a bishop, and a gold medalion of Leda and the Swan—the head and torso of Leda being cut in hard stone. It is now in the Vienna museum. Being pardoned and returning to Florence, he worked on medals, the most famous being Hercules and the Nemean Lion in gold repousse work. He also worked in Rome and Paris. Among his works of art (many of which have perished) were a colossal statue of Mars for a fountain in Fontainebleau, a life-sized statue of Jupiter, a salt-cellar made for Francis I at Vienna and many medals and medals. He died in Florence, Feb. 14, 1571. Who was he?

in private life when there are no script writers on the premises, here's one he perpetrated in New York recently: When the flood waters had receded, Noah threw open the doors of his Ark and out walked all the animals, two by two—all, that is, except two snakes. Noah prodded them with a stick and ordered "Get thee hence and multiply."
"That's impossible," groaned one of the snakes, "we're adders!"
Bernard Baruch, the Elder Statesman, has always looked on installment selling with a skeptical eye. He thinks it's all right in moderation, but that if it isn't controlled it will warp the entire American economy.

He says wryly, "The only reason why a great many American families don't own an elephant is that they never had a chance to get one for a dollar down and a dollar a week."

Tips On Purchasing Mixer As Yule Gift Are Given By County Agent

Miss Alley Cites Faults

"Electric mixers are included in many a Christmas list," says Miss Genevieve Alley, home demonstration agent of Pickaway County. She said:

"Since a lot of folks are purchasing mixers for the first time, here are some timely hints gleaned from home management department of Ohio State university."

"When you're looking at a mixer, the first thing to check is the motor. A motor of at least 120 to 125 watts is best. A radio interference eliminator should be included. The number of speeds on a mixer varies from 3 to 20, and it's handy to have a good choice of speeds for different jobs."

Miss Alley says that the beaters should be rust-proof and easy to wash. Both the beaters and the bowls will be less difficult to remove if the motor tilts back easily.

"Another thing," Miss Alley says, "since many homemakers like to use the beater at the stove or in another location, it's important that the motor and beaters can be removed from the stand or bowl platform without too much effort."

Some slide off while others must be released with a lever or thumb screw. The mixing stand needs to be heavy enough to be stationary, even when the motor and beaters have been removed.

Miss Alley says bowls which come with the mixer should have practically straight sides. They are easier to handle if the outside is ribbed. The bowl platform should revolve slowly while the beater is operating to improve the mixing. She continued:

"If you buy attachments, check them over to see how easily they can be used and kept clean. With most mixers it is necessary to buy an extra power unit in order to use attachments such as the meat grinder, shredder, or pea sheller. But now some machines on the market have a built-in power unit for attachments."

"After you buy a mixer," Miss Alley concludes, "let it do as much of your work for you as possible. Whether you use your mixer often depends on where it is stored. That's why it's important to keep it out where it can be used easily."

'THROW OFF CAMOUFLAGE'

Girls' Scanty Swim Suits Rapped By Woman Nudist

LONDON, Nov. 13 — Britain's No. 1 woman nudist, Sylvia Bassam, challenged modern woman today to shed her "fear of being unattractive" without those scanty bits of man-attracting camouflage she wears.

Mrs. Bassam—young, pretty and the color of dark ale all over—promised that woman "will not lose" by airing their goose pimples.

There are, she noted, "just as many romances in a sun club as there are in any tennis or social club."

Speaking as vice-president of the British Sun Bathing Association—the only organization of its kind in Britain—she insisted that a young man does not fall in love with a brief costume, but with the individual.

"If a girl has to rely on three bits of cloth to attract a mate, I say she will not necessarily keep him for a lifetime," declared the slim, trim Mrs. Bassam.

THE REASON for her stark statement is the fact that wom-

City Council To Ponder Water Ordinance Deal

HAMILTON, Nov. 13—Several points in regard to the defeat of the water ordinance at last Tuesday's election are expected to be clarified by council at its caucus meeting tonight.

Some questions have arisen as to whether the city will be obliged to refund any money. The refund would be the amount paid by consumers over and above the previous rates.

Doubt has been expressed as to refunds because of several factors. First, there was nothing in the referendum to imply that the ordinance itself was illegal. The challenge was directed at dissatisfactions over the rates, and not legality.

Secondly, the money probably has been mixed with other utilities funds and could not be identified. Third, probably only a few persons, if any, had made payments under what could be defined as "legal protests."

Another matter will be whether the 10 percent rebate on utilities bills will be restored. Elimination of the rebate is provided for in another ordinance and the city may not be required to restore it.

The defeat of the ordinance, however, leaves the city administration with no alternative but to reduce the water rates to their former levels.

The old rate was 90 cents minimum for 300 cubic feet, compared to $1.25 charged under the new setup. Changes also will be necessary in the charges for amounts exceeding the 300 feet minimum.

Defective Flue Is Cause Of Saturday Fire

Circleville fire department responded to a call from the Freda Hoffman home on East Mill street Saturday.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise said the blaze was caused by a defective chimney. He said the fire ate its way to the outside of the house, then burned up the outside siding to the attic.

"There was quite a lot of damage, both from fire and water," Chief Wise said.

He said the fire department was notified by Mrs. Hoffman, who told him she had awakened choking from the smoke.

No one was injured, the chief added.

Pitching Horseshoes

By BILLY ROSE

Whenever an out-of-towner says, "What have you got in New York that we haven't got in Punksutawney," I throw a copy of the Manhattan Classified Phone Directory at him. On page 1067, listed under "Missing Meirs," is a man named Theodore W. Roth whose business it is to find money.

I first heard of this gent on a radio program and this morning, in a mood to muse and meander, I stopped in to see him at his office on West 42nd Street.

"Glad to see you," said Mr. Roth. "You don't happen to be related to a Sam Bramson of Paterson, do you?"

"Not that I know of," I said. "Too bad," said Mr. Roth. Bramson left a hundred thousand dollars and I'm trying to find a relative I can give it to."

"Is there much unclaimed money lying around?"

"About eight billion dollars," said Mr. Roth, "mostly in forgotten bank accounts, stock held in escrow, uncollected insurance policies and inheritances nobody has claimed."

"What's the biggest case you ever worked on?" I asked.

"THE GARRETT CASE in Philadelphia," said Mr. Roth. "Back in 1930 a lady named Henrietta Edwina Garrett died and left property worth forty million dollars. So far over six thousand people have claimed it, six of them have been thrown into jail, a couple have committed suicide, and several lawyers have been disbarred for phonying up evidence. One of the applicants was Adolph Hitler who argued that the next of kin was a German citizen and that the money should be sent to the Fatherland. I'm happy to report he didn't get dime."

"You must meet a lot of screw-balls in your profession," I said.

Mr. Roth dug into his desk and brought out a letter. It was from a woman in Massachusetts who claimed that one of her ancestors had deeded a cranberry bog to an Indian squaw, but that the deed was faulty and she wanted the property back.

The bog, she explained, is now known as Manhattan Island.

"Last year," Mr. Roth went on, "I got one that was even wackier. A girl in Texas wrote in to say that only a second cousin stood between her and a chunk of oil land worth a million dollars. She was planning to murder her kinsman, but before going to all that trouble she wanted me to check and make sure her claim to the estate would be clear and undisputed. I, of course, turned the letter over to the police."

"Do you have any trouble collecting your fees?" I asked.

"As a rule," said the climber of family trees, "the heirs I turn up are pretty grateful. There have been cases, of course, where the only thanks I got was a dirty look."

"As for instance?"

"WELL," SAID Mr. Roth, "there was the time a widow refused to believe me when I told her I had located a twelve-thousand-dollar bank account left by her husband. I finally convinced her to sign the necessary papers, but when I handed her the twelve thousand, she said, 'I curse the day I ever met you and I curse this money too.'"

"It turned out she had always loved her husband and was devoted to his memory, despite the fact that their life together had been a hard one. He had always pleaded poverty when she needed a dress or a new pair of stockings, and she had believed him. Now that she saw him for what he was, she was understandably bitter."

"Sure, twelve thousand dollars was a lot of money, but it had destroyed the faith of a lifetime."

Naval Reserve Recall Policy Is Outlined

The Columbus recruiting office for the U. S. Navy this week released a statement of policy concerning the recall of naval reservists.

Lt. Cmdr. William M. Hicks, USNR, public information officer, said that the policies are based on a gradual enlargement of the Navy to a stabilized level.

He said they would not be applicable if the international situation became such as to require general all-out mobilization of the armed forces.

It is planned immediately to implement a policy requiring that all Reservists recalled to active duty be given 30 days' notice prior to reporting for duty.

At the earliest practicable time a program will be established to provide four months' notice for Reservists recalled to active duty. This plan will be effective by July 1, 1951, and earlier, if practicable.

Both organized and volunteer Reserve personnel are subject to involuntary recall, in a priority basis, Organized Reserve personnel first and Volunteer Reserve personnel second, as necessary to meet the requirements of the Navy.

However, personnel transferring from a Volunteer to an Organized status after Oct. 15, 1950, will be recalled on a Volunteer priority basis.

Deferments may be obtained by individuals filling key positions in industry, positions essential to community welfare, cases involving personal extreme hardship, having four or more dependents or is completing a school term in college or an equivalent institution.

The present law provides that the maximum period of involuntary duty shall not exceed 21 months. The release of enlisted personnel is planned to start in July of 1951 and officer personnel will be released to inactive duty commencing October of 1951. Officer and enlisted personnel released to inactive duty will be replaced by personnel recruited for the Regular Navy

Next Year's Crops Look Very Good

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—Now that the 1950 Fall harvest season is almost completed, the government is looking toward next year's crop production. It or by the involuntary recall of Reservists who have not had active duty service since World War II.

reports Fall seeding well advanced in most areas.

The Agriculture Department says that seeding is going along fine, with good stands of grain "developing well."

In the Great Plains the season was practically ideal for seeding wheat, with fields well prepared and ample moisture at the time of seeding. "Volunteer" wheat furnished pasture early, but the warm, dry October weather and heavy leaf rust caused rapid deterioration in the latter part of that month.

The department reports that subsoil moisture is mostly adequate in the Great Plains area, but the top soil in large sections is dry and not firm enough to prevent pulling out of shallow-rooted plants in grazing.

In California, where most of the seeding is done in December and January, a start already is reported, with soil moisture said to be satisfactory.

And in the South, preparation of fields and seeding of all grains is advanced for this time of year.

Summing the situation up, cheerily, the department says: "The 1951 wheat crop is starting off excellently—as a general rule."

3 Local Rural Mail Carriers Due To End 30 Years Service Same Day

Three of Circleville Postoffice's rural mail carriers will complete 30 years of such federal service on the same day—Nov. 15.

They are Warren Baker, Paul Betz and William Betts Jr. Each received a permanent appointment as rural mail carrier Nov. 15, 1920, each is "going just as strong" today as he was in 1920.

Baker drove 25 miles a day then, serviced about 100 rural boxes. Now, he drives 60 miles, is responsible for setting mail into 375 boxes.

Betz drove 25 miles in 1920 to deliver mail to 130 boxes. Now he has 60 miles and 260 boxes.

Betz had 90 boxes in 1920 and covered 24 miles. Today's schedule calls for traveling 83 miles to reach 134 boxes.

Have these 30 years been good years? Ask any one of the three and he will tell you that if he had to do it all over again—yes, he would be a rural mail carrier.

CHS As Great On Paper As On Gridiron In 1950

Circleville's 1950 championship Tiger football team is as great on paper as it was on the battlefield.

According to statistics compiled for the season, the Tigers romped a total of 3,045 yards in nine games to score 51 touchdowns.

With those figures, Circleville earned eight victories in nine starts during its 1950 season while winning its third South Central Ohio League championship in as many years without a league defeat.

And those figures show that the highly successful Tigers scored an average of 5.6 time per game during its season while earning an average of 338.3 yards per game.

The Circleville team was stingy with its opposition during its season, however.

THE CHS'ERS allowed their opponents to score only 19 times during the season for an average of 2.1 TDs per game, and allowed the opposition to earn only 1,741 yards for the season or 193.4 yards per game.

Circleville was aided in the scoring department by a two-point safety against Holy Rosary in its season opener, while it collected a total of 23 points after touchdown.

Its opposition earned only seven extra points after touchdown during the season.

John "Dixie" Harris, zipping through right tackle quick-peneters during the season, turned in the top scoring performance for the Tigers this season.

The speedy scabbard hurtled through the opposition for a total of 16 touchdowns during the season, chalking up a total of 96 points for the ram-paging Tigers.

Segura Whips Jack Kramer

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 13 — Panchito Segura defeated Jack Kramer 6-6, 7-5, 6-2, last night in the fourteenth encounter of their nationwide professional tennis tour. Kramer still leads the series with nine victories over Segura.

Gorgeous Gussie Moran and Mrs. Pauline Betz Addie battled to a draw in their match. Gussie won the first set, 6-2, but Mrs. Addie came back to win the second, 6-1.

In the mixed doubles, Kramer and Miss Moran defeated Segura and Mrs. Betz 6-4, 6-3.

Pacific Coast To Get Chance To See Vaunted Army Grid Outfit

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—Pacific Coast residents will get a chance Saturday to see if it's true what they say about Army.

The mighty, top-ranking Cadets make their first Pacific Coast jaunt in 21 years to meet twice-beaten Stanford in Palo Alto, Cal.

This promises to be one of three top drawer games marking the stretch drive of the college football season. The other two pit Ohio State against Illinois and unblemished Princeton against Yale.

Army's Black Knights, who have gone 27 games without a loss, will be out to atone for a 34-14 licking they got from the Indians back in 1929, the first time they went to the coast. What's more, Stanford holds a 2-1 edge in the series between the teams.

The West Pointers warmed up for the task by pulverizing under-manned New Mexico, 51 to 0. Coach Red Blaik wasn't even present. He was busy scouting Navy for his team's season closer.

Army, Kentucky, California, Princeton, Wyoming and Oklahoma remained in the select circle of unbeaten, untied boys. Miami of Florida fell by the wayside into the once-tied group by getting into a 13-to-13 deadlock with Louisville last Friday night.

AMONG THE LITTLE college biggies, Lehigh and Loyola of Los Angeles kept their slates clean.

Kentucky's Wildcats blasted Mississippi State, 48 to 21 for their ninth straight win.

California belted UCLA, 35 to 0 and moved into an almost certain Rose Bowl return bid.

The Bears have won 32 straight regular season games. Oklahoma made it 28 straight victories by burying Kansas, 33 to 13 while Wyoming snowballed Brigham Young, 48 to 0 for its eighth in a row.

Princeton continued toward its first unbeaten season since 1935 by shellacking helpless Harvard, 63 to 26. It was the worst licking in Harvard history. The Tigers go up against Yale in a Big Three thriller Saturday.

Once-tied Clemson bounced Boston college, 35 to 14. Lehigh made it eight straight by routing previously unbeaten Carnegie Tech, 66 to 0, while Loyola took Fresno State, 28 to 0. Ohio State, Illinois, Texas,

Leg Hurt Keeps Sandy On Bench

Circleville's Sandy Hill resumed practice Monday with the Miami university Redskins football team after recovering from a leg injury.

Sandy's freshman team last Friday pulverized Ohio university frosh by a 41-7 margin, although Sandy was absent from action.

Miami officials said Sandy hurt the leg during the Redskins clash with Xavier two weeks ago but that the injury was not serious. He was not needed in last week's tilt.

Sandy will be in the starting lineup for Miami next Friday when his team meets invading University of Dayton Frosh for its final game of the season.

Heavy Schedule Is Set Up For Buckeye Cagers

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13 — Ohio State's defending Western Conference basketball champions will play a schedule of 22 games—the heaviest card permitted under Big Ten rules.

Half of the games will be played on the road. Ohio State's schedule includes:

Dec. 4 Kansas State; Dec. 6 Butler; Dec. 9 at Marquette; Dec. 11 Missouri; Dec. 23 St. Louis; Dec. 29 Princeton at Michigan State; Dec. 30 Penn State at Michigan State.

Jan. 6 Indiana; Jan. 8 at Minnesota; Jan. 13 Wisconsin; Jan. 20 at Northwestern; Jan. 22 at Indiana; Jan. 27 Michigan State; Jan. 29 Northwestern.

Feb. 3 Purdue; Feb. 5 at Wisconsin; Feb. 10 at Iowa; Feb. 12 Illinois; Feb. 17 Minnesota; Feb. 19 at Michigan; Feb. 24 Illinois.

March 3 DePaul in Chicago Stadium.

Tony Curcillo Hurt In Game

COLUMBUS, Nov. 13—Illinois may find things easier going next Saturday against Ohio State if Quarterback Tony Curcillo's injured ankle keeps him from the Buckeye offense lineup.

Curcillo hurt his ankle Saturday when he snagged an aerial from Vic Janowicz and went down under Wisconsin's linemen.

If Curcillo can't make it, Janowicz probably will move into quarterback spot or Dick Widdoes may fall into the slot.

Denver '5 Wins On Charity Line

DENVER, Nov. 13—The Denver Frontier Refiners made good on free throws last night to take their season opener in the National Professional Basketball League, 71 to 64, over the visiting Grand Rapids Hornets.

The Hornets led 34 to 33 at the half. The Refiners had 33 successful free throws to the visitors' 14, but Denver made only 19 from the field while the Hornets tossed 25.

Increase In Rural Crime Said To Be Cause For Concern

Sociology Aide Tells Development

Youth Activities Said Solution

Are farmers going to lose—not necessarily by their own behavior—their reputation for peaceful and law-abiding living? That was the question asked by Larry Best, Pickaway County agricultural extension agent, Monday as he studied a report made by David E. Lindstrom, chief in rural sociology at the University of Illinois.

Citing that rural crime has doubled from 1948 to 1949, Lindstrom feels there is cause for concern.

One in ten of the major crimes in the United States last year was committed in the country, Lindstrom points out.

Crime in rural areas went up 8.5 percent last year. Another jump of 7.4 percent was reported by the FBI for the first half of 1950.

"On the basis of crimes for each 100,000 people cities still lead in the offenses against property and aggravated assault," Lindstrom says. "But the rural rate has forged ahead in many other classifications."

"FOR MURDER the rural rate was 5.52 compared with 3.78 for towns under 10,000. For negligent manslaughter the rural rate was 4.21, city 3.32 and town 1.97. For rape the rural rate was 12.38, city 12.49 and town 7.84. For aggravated assault the rural rate was 35.8, city 82.6, town 33.7."

"Proportion of property crimes are still about twice as high in the city as in the country," Lindstrom says. "But number of burglaries alone in rural areas went up more than 17 percent from 1948 to 1949. That was about three times the increase in urban areas. Robberies were 12.7 and larcenies 7.4 percent higher in 1949, according to 1,558 rural police agencies serving 32,813,514 people."

"The sobering fact about such records is the alarming number of young people involved," Lindstrom continues.

"Of total arrests, 247,971, or 31.2 percent, were under 30 years."

"For rural areas the number was well over 87,000 or three times the number of 4-H boys in Illinois. In both rural and urban areas the largest number of arrests were made for youth 21 years old."

What does the sociologist suggest?

"Trouble in your community comes when youth, looking for excitement, go in for souped-up jalopies, hot-rod racing, drinking, gambling, pickups and fighting."

"Few crimes are recorded from homes and neighborhoods in which young people take part in church, 4-H, Future Farmer, Future Homemaker, Scout or other rural youth groups. Minds occupied with learning and bodies with activity, have little place for crime."

The bank has installed a self service parking meter change gimmick, by which members of the public can make their own change for parking meters.

Wilbur Witten, bank cashier, reported the gimmick has balanced "to the penny" for the four days it has been in operation. The gimmick includes a parking meter and a tray of coins for making change.

merit in the restoration classification.

The awards committee, after checking 68 farms in 44 counties, named Carl Stander of Butler County for the first award in restoration. Stander restored a completely denuded farm to profitable production.

P. E. Grubb of Licking County received first award for special achievement as a result of his outstanding success in the production, handling and marketing of hybrid seed corn.

To Clayton Glecker of Fulton County went the top award in farm experimentation for development of special processes for separating seeds from tomato pulp and building a large business in vegetable seeds.

Oxford Council Eyes Cop Issue

OXFORD, Nov. 13—The police issue will receive thorough airing in city council tomorrow night.

Police salaries and authority for recommending new members of the force are the principal points for discussion. Chief of Police Harry Spencer repeatedly has said the salary scale is not high enough.

Council also will discuss the sale of $15,000 in bonds for new fire equipment which voters authorized last week. Recommendation will be heard from Fire Chief Flanagan on the type of equipment to be bought.

ITCH (Scabies) is highly contagious and will continue for life if not stopped. Its sole cause is the itch-mite which is immune to ordinary treatment. EXSORA kills the itch-mite almost instantly. Only three days EXSORA treatment is required. GALLAHER'S DRUG STORE
